FOREWORD.

The records in this book represent some fifteen years of intermittent searching and correspondence. In the hundreds of names and dates, which have been copied and re-copied, there are doubtless errors, some of which have already been discovered and noted in the list of "Additions and Corrections" at the end of the work.

No attempt has been made to trace the Blish lines beyond the shores of America, and while I have examined all known sources of information, I make no claim that the history is full. A few, whose lines are incomplete, are included for future reference.

In the old records the name is frequently spelled "Blush", but the correct spelling is undoubtedly "Blish". The name is so spelled in the will of the first Abraham, recorded at Plymouth, and in all wills and deeds the name is uniformly "Blish", with the exception of a few of the descendants of Joseph⁴ (47) who spell it "Blush".

There is a Blish coat of arms, but it is of so doubtful authenticity, that I have not used it.

The plan of the work is simple and obvious. Each name is given a distinct number, which appears first in the margin before the names of the children in each family. This number is repeated, in larger type, at the head of each family. The number of the generation, counting from Abraham¹ Blish, is indicated by a small figure at the end of the given name. A plus sign (+) before a name indicates that it is carried forward. All known record authorities are given in the body of the work or at the end of each family.

Attention is called to the additional notes upon the Fuller, Hull, Lothrop and Jones families. All of the descendants of Joseph² Blish (3) trace to the Rev. Joseph Hull, and all of the descendants of Tristram³ Blish (14) to Edward and Samuel Fuller of the Mayflower, the Rev. John Lothrop and Dr. Matthew Fuller of Barnstable. Attention is also called to the Table of Abbreviations and the Glossary of Obscure Words.

I would be pleased to be informed of any errors in the work, and to correspond with any person interested in the family directly or collaterally, as my investigations will not end with the publication of this book.

ABRAHAM BLISH.

All of the name of Blish, besides a few who spell the name Blush are descended from Abraham Blish, who was in Duxbury, a part of the Plymouth Colony, in 1637. He is mentioned in Winsor's History of Duxbury, p. 228. The first authentic record we find, is a deed from Richard Moore to Abraham Blush of a tract of land in Duxbury, at the "Eagle's Nest", which is found in Plymouths Great Book of Deeds, volume 1, page 22, and is as follows:

RICHARD MORE DEED.

"Bradford Goun^r: xiiijth of King Charles.

"The first day of Nouember, 1637, Richard More of Ducksborrow yeoim for and in consideracōn of the suine of twenty pounds sterl to be payed in money or beauer in manner & forme following that is to say tenn pounds pt thereof at or vpon the sixteenth of this instant Nouember and other tenn pounds at or vpon the twenty ninth day of Septemb^r next ensuing the former payment and the other thirty shillings the first day of Nouember after, Hath bargained, sould aliened enfoeffed and confirmed vnto Abraham Blush of the same all that messuage and tennement in Ducksborrow aforesaid wth the twenty acres of land therevnto belonging and all his right title and interest of and into the said p^rmisses and euery part and pcell thereof To haue and to hold the said messuage or tennement lands and p^rmisses and all and singular their appurteñces vnto the said Abraham Blush his heires and Assignes foreuer to the onely proper vse and behoofe of him the said Abraham Blush his heires and assignes foreũ."

JOHN WILLIS DEED.

This land is again mentioned in a deed found in the same volume, on page 58, as follows:

"Memorand: The 20th of September 1657 That whereas John Willis purchased of Abraham Blush halfe the twenty acree lott lying on Duxborrow syde which lott the said Blush purchased of Richard More as may appeer by an Instrument vpon Record bearing date Nouember 27 1638 Now the said John Willis doth acknowledg that for and in consideration of eight pounds to him in hand payed by Willam Paybody of Duxborrow, haue freely and absolutely sold vnto said Willam Paybody That one halfe lott That hee bought of the aforesaid Blush being the easterly end of the twenty acree Lott Towards the place called Eagles-Nest point with all and singulare the premises therevnto belonging Together with all his right and Interest of and in the same To haue and to hold the said halfe Lott of land with all and singulare the Appurtenances therevnto belonging for the onely proper vse and behooffe of him the said Willam Paybody his heires and Assignes for euer. by mee JOHN WILLIS.

Signed sealed and deliuered in the p^rsence of Nathaniel Morton.

Josiah Standish.

“This Instrument was acknowledged this 4th of July 1679 before mee, DANIEL SMITH, Assistant.”

The exact date of his coming to Duxbury is unknown, the earliest records of that Town having supposedly been burned with the house of Miles Standish, who was the Town Clerk.

Abraham Blish early removed to Barnstable and is known to have been there in 1640, and may be considered one of the early settlers of that Town. His first residence was in what was afterward known as West Barnstable, “Great Marshes”—and his homestead there was owned by him and his descendents for nearly two hundred years. On July 17th, 1658, he purchased of Dolar Davis, for £75, a farm in the easterly part of the Town, near the present site of the Town of Barnstable, a portion of which land was in the old common-field. His house was on the south side of the mill-pond and a short distance south-east of the old tide-mill, and the causeway that formed the mill-dam was known as “Blish’s Bridge” or “Blush’s Bridge”. It is spelled both ways in the old records. The western extremety of the old common-field was, until a very recent date, known as Blish’s Point. The inventory of the estate of Jeremiah Bacon mentions “one piece of meadow by Blish’s Bridge,” Mar. 29, 1706. In the will of John Bacon, proven 20 Oct. 1738, occurs the following—“Item—I give free liberty to all my sons and grandsons to use and improve my two landing places one at the mill and one at the bank by Blush’s point, as they may have occasion”. The inventory of John Davis, 28 Feb. 1739, mentions meadow at Blish's point, bought of John Sturges, and land at Blish's point is also mentioned in the partition of the estate of John Lewis, 4 Apr. 1789. Portions of the old causeway are still standing and the remains of an old tide-mill are now on the site though doubtless of later construction. Abraham Blish was a large land owner for those days, as is evidenced by the frequency with which his name occurs in the records. Among the earlier records is found the following, pertaining to the lands of the first settlers:

"1651, Jan'y. 8. Whereas the Inhabitants of this Town took into serious consideration the great trouble and confusion that may hereafter ensue for want of recording sundry parcel or parcels of land given and granted to sundry particular men within the township, for the prevention of which trouble and confusion the s^d inhabitants have therefore, at full Town Meeting, y^e day and year above written, with full consent, ordered and agreed as followeth, viz:—that whatsoever parcel or parcels of land or lands any man hath and is at present possessed with within this Township, the bounds of said lands being publicly declared in Town Meeting, and proved, shall be recorded in the Town book to be the lands of each possessor thereof, and do by these Presents order and declare that the record thereof as aforesaid be sufficient security to claim, hold and retain full and lawful right, title and interest to them, their heirs forever of all and every such parcel and parcels of land possessed by them and recorded as aforesaid.

"To Abraham Blush.—The parcel of marsh meddow 8 acres, be it more or less, lying in y^e cove, commonly called y^e Bridge cove, butting northerly upon a small creek running by his point of upland into y^e Bridge creek and southerly by Gdd Bowermans upland, bounded by a small runlet (near y^e markt tree,) which run from y^e s^d upland into y^e bridge creek, which s^d creek is y^e bounds of it westerly, and bounded on y^e easterly side by Gdd Bowermans marsh."

Three other tracts of land are described as belonging to Abraham Blush. 1658, July 21. Another list of the lands and land owners of the Town was spread upon the Town records, among which are eleven tracts of Abraham Blish.

ANCIENT DEED.

Many of the old deeds are curious in form and phraseology; the following is an average sample:

"To All Persons to Whom These Presents Shall Come, Abraham Blish of Barnstable in y^e Government of New Plymouth, in New England, yeoman, sendeth Greeting, and Know Ye that I, the said Abraham Blish, for and in consideration of a parcel of high fence belonging to y^e field commonly called y^e common-field, in Barnstable aforesaid, containing twenty and two rodd lying on y^e Kings highway between y^e fence of Nathaniel Bacon of Barnstable aforesaid and a gate which I was to make and maintain that stands at y^e head of y^e lane or way which leads down to y^e creek and to my now dwelling house, now to be repaired and ever be maintained by y^e s^d Nathaniel Bacon and Jeremy Bacon, their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns forever, the security for making and repairing y^e s^d fence and gate by y^e s^d Nathaniel Bacon and Jeremy Bacon, to me in hand given, y^e receipt whereof I do hereby acknowledge and declare myself fully satisfied, contented and paid, and for divers other good causes and considerations to me the s^d Abraham Blish, at this time especially moving, have given, granted, bargained, sold, aliened, enfeoffed and confirmed and by these presents do freely and absolutely give, grant, bargain, sell, alien, enfeoffe and confirm unto them y^e s^d Nathaniel Bacon and Jeremy Bacon, their heirs and assigns forever, all that parcel of my meddow marsh and creek stuff, containing about one acre and one-half, be it more or less, lying and being in Barnstable aforesaid, on y^e northerly side of y^e creek commonly called y^e old mill creek, and is bounded southerly by y^e s^d creek and easterly by y^e causeway over y^e marsh from y^e bridge where y^e old mill stood, and is bounded westerly by y^e west side of a rock standing by y^e upland side and thence ranging easterly to y^e main creek aforesaid by the point where y^e bank of y^e s^d creek is steep down; together with all y^e proffits, privileges and appurtenances to y^e s^d bargained premises belonging or in any wise appertaining: To Have and To Hold y^e s^d parcel of meddow and creek stuff and appurtenances unto y^e s^d Nathaniel Bacon and Jeremy Bacon, their and each of their heirs and assigns forever. presents, and that y^e s^d bargained premises are to be and shall continue to be clearly exhonored, acquitted and discharged or otherwise upon request and sufficiently saved and kept harmless by me y^e s^d Abraham Blish, mine heirs, executors and administrators, of and from all other former gifts, grants, bargains, sales, titles, dowers, charges and incumbrances w^tsoever had, made, conducted or done, or to be made, had conducted or done by me, y^e s^d Abraham Blish, mine heirs or assigns or by any other person or persons from, by or under me, us or any of us, or by mine, our or any of our means, consent or procurement.

1673. Jany. 16. Abraham Blish, Thomas Lumbart and James Cob were chosen Heywards for the following year.

The first wife of ABRAHAM BLISH was ANNE.....

The date of marriage is unknown. By her he had children:

2. SARAH,² b. 2 Dec. 1644, according to the Barnstable Town records, which is followed by the N. E. Gen. Regr. 21-65. The Plymouth records say 2 Dec. 1641, which is followed by Freeman in his History of Cape Cod, and by Otis' Barnstable Families. The Church records say she was baptized by Rev. Lothrop, 5 Dec. 1641, which is probably correct. Nothing further is known of her excepting the mention in the will of her father, as Sarah Orchyard.

3.+JOSEPH,² b. 1. Apr. 1648 and baptized 9 Apr. 1648—Barnstable Tn. Rec., Freeman's Cape Cod and Otis. His Wife Anne, died 16 May 1651, according to the Plymouth records and the Barnstable Tn. records. The Church record says, “Syster Blush buried May 26, 1653.” Otis gives both dates, but prefers the earlier. He married second HANNAH,* a daughter of John Williams of Scituate and widow of John Barker of Marshfield, Mass. By her he had,

*John Barker was drowned 14 Dec. 1652, and administration granted to his widow 17 Dec. 1652. Her son Abraham Blish was b. Oct. 1654, so that her marriage with Abraham Blish must have been not later than the early part of the year 1654.

4.+ABRAHAM² b. 16 Oct. 1654, according to the Barnstable records, Freeman and the N. E. Gen. Regr. The Plymouth records say he was born about 16 Mar. 1658. Hannah Williams Barker, the second wife, died — Mar. 1658, according to the Plymouth records. The Barnstable Tn. records say 16 Feb. 1657-8, which is followed by Otis and the N. E. Gen. Regr. He married as third wife, ALICE, widow of John Derby of Yarmouth, 4 Jany. 1658-9.

JOHN BARKER'S SUIT.

The following record of a suit of one of the Barker children will be of interest, as a legal curiosity.

“At the Court of his Matie holden att Plymouth for the Jurisdiction of New Plymouth the fift of March, 1677.

“John Barker, of Barnstable, complaineth against Captaine John Williams of Scituate, as Guardian and receiur of the rents and profits of the land of the said John Barker during his minoritie, in an action of accompt, to the damage of 200 pounds; for that the said John Williams, as guardian in soccage, tooke into his custody the said Barker in the month of March in the yeer 1657, and from said time receiued the rents and profits of said Barker his lands in the townshipp of Marshfield, and had severall yeerly tenants of the same until the said Barker did arriue att the age of twenty one yeers, which was in the yeer 1672, being fourteen yeers compleat, and thereof hath not rendered an accompte to the plaintiffe to this day, notwithstanding the said guardian hath not improued the estate in educating and well bringing vp the said heire, but contrariwise did improue the said heire as his servant, about the said Williams his owne servill employments.”

“The jury find for the plaintiffe an hundred and seauenteen pounds damages, vnless the defencant render to him a faire accompt between this and the last of May next, and the costs of suit which comes to 4[£] 06^s 06^d to be payed in siluer money.”

“In reference vnto the verdict of the jury in the case of John Barker, plaintiffe and Capt. John Williams, defendant, in an action of accompt as guardian in soccage, which is as followeth, viz:—the jury find for the plaintiffe one hundred and seuteen pounds damage, vnless the defendant doe render to him a faire accompt between this and the last of May next, and the cost of suit: This court doth appoint the honorable the Goũ., Major Cudworth and the Treasurer, and for default of either, Mr. Thomas Hinckley, auditors, to meet together att Marshfield the 15th day of May next, att tenn of the clocke, to auditt, heare and determine the said accompt, together with the cost of said auditt and to issue forth executions for the arrearages of the same; and case the said auditors shall not agree in any matter touching the said accompt, that then any two of them agreeing shall haue full power to determine the same.”—Plym. Rec. VII-209.

John Derby or Darby d. at Yarmouth before 5 Mar. 1655-6, when administration was granted to his widow. After the death of Nicholas Nickerson, in 1682, the court ordered the land at Monx's Hill, in Plymouth, to be divided between widows Blush and widow Nicarson, who had received nothing before from her father John Darby.—(Pope's Pioneers of Mass. 130.)

John Barker succeeded so well in this suit, that he was encouraged to try again, and on the 16th of July, 1678, he filed the following declaration :

“John Barker, of Barnstable, complains against John Williams of Scituate, in an action on the case, to the damage of one hundred pounds,—for that whereas, after the said Barker did arriue at the age of fourteen yeers, he chose the said Williams as his guardian and who expected to continev his gaurdianshipp to said Barker and was allowed and appointed by the Court of New Plymouth to be guardian to said Barker and required by said Court to bring him vp in the way of education and learning soe as might be to his advantage and health when hee should come to be of age and put him forth to a trade, as may appear by the record of this Court, bearing date October, 1665: and the said Williams to the contrary wise imployed the said Barker about his, the said Williams owne servill employments, from said time vntill the said Barker did arriue att mans estate, and did not put him forth to a trade: wherefore the complainant brings his action to the honorable Court for relieffe and prase that he may haue wages for his seruice done for said Williams and damage for not putting the said Barker forth to a trade.”—Plym. Rec.

The young man was non-suited in this case, and then the old man, evidently wishing to get even, filed the following complaint :

“John Williams of Situate complaineth of John Barker of Barnstable, in an action on the case, to the damage of one thousand pounds, siluer mony, for that the aforesaid John Barker at some time since March last, slanderously reported and defamed the aboue said Williams, by saying, that hee, the said Williams, “is the wickedest man that ever was vpon the face of the earth.”—Plym. Rec.

The Court evidently thought that the quarrel had proceeded far enough, and Williams was also non-suited.

The following curious receipts probably have reference to the Barker property :

“Nouember the 11th 1654. Receiued by mee, John Williams, for the vse of Abraham Blush, of Peregrine White, the sume of thirty shillings for rent. I say receiued by mee, John Williams, which is the one-halfe.

John Williams.”

rent due to Anne Barker. I say receiued by mee this 26 of March, 1662.

John Williams."

—Plym. Rec. VIII-211.

"May 9th 1656. Receiued by mee Dolar Dauis, by the order of Abraham Blush of Barnstable, the full and just sume of five pounds and ten shillings, of Nathaniell Bassett of Marshfield, in a cow and yearling. I say receiued by mee.

—Plym. Rec. VIII-210

"April the 9th 1656. Recieued by mee Dolar Dauis of Concord, by order of Abraham Blush of Barnstable, the full sume of five pounds five shillings of Peregrine White of Marshfield, in a cow and calf. Abraham Blish was one of the organizers of the old Brattle Street Church. It was founded in 1699, tho' steps had been taken towards it in 1697. The deed from Thomas Brattle conveying land called “Brattle close” for a meeting house, was dated 10 Jany., 1698. This Church having departed from the Cambridge platform in some particulars, was violently opposed by some of the fathers in the churches of New England, and a protest was publicly made against it. This drew from the Brattle Street Church a defense of its course, which was called a “manifesto,” and gave the church the name of the “Manifesto Church”, which it bore for many years. (Those desiring more on this subject, are referred to Lathrop's History of Battle Street Church, Elliott's New Eng. Biog. Dict., Allen's Amer. Biog. & Hist. "Voted that s^d committee be desired to make report of what they shall think proper relating thereto to y^e Town y^e meeting w^{ch} shall be called for the choyce of Jurors for next Jan^{ry} Court."
- (A lengthy report was made in Dec. following, which was postponed to the March meeting, when it was voted to loan the money on "good Real Security".

About 1719 a large colony of persons from the vicinity of Londonderry, Ireland, arrived in this country, some of whom settled in Boston. They were chiefly manufacturers of linen and brought their utensils with them for that purpose. The foot linen wheel, so common in the households of New England, was introduced by these people. The raising of flax and the manufacture of linen cloth was looked upon as a matter of great importance to this country.

The will of William Shaw, citizen and weaver, of London, England, dated 5 April 1687, and proven 11 May 1693 gives to "brother John, of Boston, in New England, 40*£," and several other bequests, among which is the following,—“to my cousin Martha Blush, of Boston aforesaid, daughter of my said brother John Shaw, 10£; to cousins John and Martha Barker, son and daughter of my late sister Elizabeth Barker, deceased, 10£* apiece.”

John Shaw, butcher, was admitted a member of the artillery company in Boston in 1646.

Among the list of creditors of Thomas Crocker, of Barnstable, Mass., is Mr. Abraham Blish, of Boston. "Claims due to him on the booke, 006-06-00."

Also in the estate of Nathaniel Otis,—“Mr. Abraham Blish of Boston claims is due to him by bond bearing date 26 Aug., 1718, 40-00-00”.

Abraham Blish died in Boston the middle of February, 1734. His will was admitted to probate 8 Mar. 1734, and is as follows:

WILL.

In the Name of God, Amen. I Abraham Blish, of Boston, Feltmaker, tho aged and infirm of body, yet of sound mind, do make my last will and testament in manner following, viz:

First—and principally, I commit my soul to God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, humbly asking pardon for all my sins and precluding all charity, through Jesus Christ my Savior, and my body to the earth to be decently interred, at the discretion of my Executors hereinafter named, in hopes of a glorious resurrection by help of my Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ; and as to my worldly goods and estate, after the payment of my funeral charges and just debts, I order and dispose of the same as follows:—

Item.—I give and devise to my said loving wife, the use and improvement of my Negro servant, Flora, for and during the term of my said wife's life, and no longer.

Item.—I give and devise to my good friends Mess^{rs} Oxenbridge Thatcher and John Edwards, and to their heirs and assigns forever, the reversion of my dwelling house above mentioned after the decease of my wife, and all other my lands, tenements and hereditaments: and I do also give and bequeath unto them, the s^d Oxenbridge Thatcher and John Edwards, their Execut^{rs} and Admin^{rs} all the residue of my household stuff and plate, the silver tankard aforesaid, and after my wife's decease, the said desk and negro and all other my goods and chattels whatsoever. Nevertheless, my trust and confidence in them reposed and my aforesaid gift, devise and bequest to them, is upon this special trust, that they shall employ and dispose of all my said goods and chattels, and the rents and profits of my said messuage, lands, tenements and hereditaments for the profits of this my will, and convey and settle the said messuage, lands, tenements and hereditaments for such purposes and to such persons and in such manner as by this my last will and testament is appointed concerning the same: that is to say,—I will, devise and appoint, that after the decease of my loving wife, my trustees afores^d shall enter into my messuage, lands, tenem^{ts} and hereditaments aforesaid, lease the same to the best advantage from time to time, as occasion shall require, receive the rents and increase of the same and quarterly pay the same to my said grand-daughter, into her own proper hands and not into the hands of her said husband or of any other person or persons that may claim the same by force of any assignment or otherwise, but only to her own hands for her sole and separate use, and her husband to have no meddling with the same; and her receipts shall be sufficient discharges of my trustees aforesaid: and if my said grand-daughter shall dye before the said Robert and continuing the marriage between them, in such case she leave any issue of her body, my trustees aforesaid shall immediately convey all my messuage, lands, tenements and hereditaments aforesaid, after the decease of my said wife, to such issue or issues, to hold the same to them and their heirs forever; but if she leave no issue of her body in the case aforesaid, then my trustees aforesaid shall immediately upon my said grand-daughter's decease convey all my message, lands, tenements and hereditaments after the death of my said wife, to Joseph Pomroy of Boston, Abraham Blish of Barnstable, or their heirs, my nephews, in equal halves, to hold to them and their heirs forever: but if my said grand-daughter shall survive the said Robert or the marriage now between them, then my said trustees shall immediately convey all my messuage, lands, tenements and hereditaments, after the decease of my said wife, to my grand-daughter, Martha Brown, to hold to her and her heirs forever.

The will of Susanna Blish, dated 25 Feby. 1735, was admitted to probate 9 Aug. 1738 and letters testamentary granted to Zechariah Hubbart and Elizabeth Hubbart, widow. She bequeaths property to Sarah, w. of nephew Zechariah Hubbart, to Susanna, James, Thomas, Tuthill, Joseph, John, and Elizabeth children of nephew John Hubbart, to Susanna and Zechariah, children of nephew Zechariah Hubbart, and to Zechariah Hubbart, nephew, and Elizabeth Hubbart, widow, niece.

In 1711 there was a destructive fire in Boston, originating in an old tenement occupied by Mary Moss or Morse, who was alleged to have been drunk. There is a petition on file in the City Clerk's office asking for payment of losses on account of this fire, signed by the sufferers, among which was Abraham Blish. The following signature is taken from that petition. The strength of this signature is in marked contrast with that attached to his will.

It is a tradition in the family that Tristram Blish was a weaver by trade. He was executor of the will of his father in Barnstable, and must have removed to Colchester, Conn., about 1726. His name occurs several times in the land records of Colchester. He was evidently named for Tristram Hull, his maternal grand-father. The records of Colchester and Marlborough are silent as to the deaths of him and his wife.

1739. Sept. 3. A list of the freemen of Colchester has the name of Thurston Blush.

*See LATHROP, Appendix.

See FULLER, Appendix.

1740. Apr. 16. The names of Tristram Blish and Anr. his wife, appear on the list of the members of the Westchester Church, which is the west parish of Colchester.
 "Trustram Blish made a confession of intemperance and was restored to the full charity and fellowship of the church."

The Hebron, Conn. Records have the following entry: "Edward Neland and Hannah Blush were joyned together in marriage, Oct. 30, 1746." This was probably Anna (43). Her mother's name was Anne and her grand-mother's Hannah. She would be 27 years old at the date of this marriage.

1749. July 30. "Trustram Blush and Ann, his wife and Danl. Chamberlain and Elizabeth, his wife, were dismissed to the church at New Marlboro." (This was probably the church in the northern part of the Town, now in the Town of Marlborough, but then in Colchester.)
 1749. Sept. 4. Trustram Blush conveyed 8 acres of land in Colchester to Benjamin Root for £200.
 1752. Mar. 3. Trustram Blush mortgaged 68½ acres in Colchester, "with the mansion", for £1200.

He followed the trade of feltmaker or hatter, the same as his father. He was for a time located at Ipswich, Mass. He was baptized 14 Dec. 1699, in the Brattle Street Church in Boston, and united with the church 2 Apr. 1717. His will was probated in Boston, 16 Sept. 1717, before Samuel Sewall, Judge, from which it would appear that he died there. His will was dated 29 Aug. 1717, and gives his entire estate to his wife Margaret, who is made executor. There is no record of any children.

1714. June 16. "William Fillett, y^e Sloop Hopewell, from N. Carolina. John Blush, a Merch^t."

The foregoing are all of the records found of the children of Abraham (4), feltmaker of Boston. It would appear from his will, that his only living heir was his grand-daughter, Martha Brown. It is uncertain whose daughter she was, but probably Thomas Foster's.

June 25th, 1776, a meeting was called in Barnstable to consider whether the Town would instruct its representatives to pledge their lives and fortunes in support of the Continental Congress. About one hundred and forty were present. The times were troublous and a strong Tory element made itself felt. Upon a vote being taken 30 voted to sustain Congress and 35 voted against it. The remainder present, either from fear or indecision, did not vote at all, and the vote was declared as against the instruction. This occasioned much bitter feeling, and drew forth the following PROTEST, which, as it preceded the authentic Declaration might be called

THE BARNSTABLE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

WE, the subscribers, inhabitants of the Town of Barnstable PROTEST against the proceedings of said Town, at their meeting held on Tuesday, 25th. June, inst., respecting the giving of their representatives instructions with regard to the INDEPENDENCY of the Colonies, as was recommended to the several towns in this Colony by way of a Resolve from the House of Representatives; And as a vote was put in said meeting to know whether the Town would proceed to give any instructions to their representatives, agreeably to the aforesaid recommendations, which was carried in the negative; And judging it to be our duty to protest against such vote, we do it for the following reasons:—We think such a measure as proposed in said resolve to be the most salutary that can be gone into for the safety and well being of the Colonies under our oppressed situation; and it is the duty of every individual to give his voice in favor of the aforesaid recommendation, in case the honorable Cont. Congress see cause to declare these Colonies entirely independent. WE are ready and willing to stand by such a declaration, if it shall take place, to the uttermost of our power, with our lives and estates; And being very unwilling that the aforesaid Vote be passed over in silence for fear of offending our own consciences in being thought to acquiesce in so strange a vote of the town, and of offending our Countrymen and Bretheren in other towns, who may go into contrary measures; entirely abhorring any principles but what are for the good of the United Colonies of America, and detesting those arguments brought by some men at said meeting to dissuade the people from complying with the said recommendation; We take this method of letting the public know our dissent from the aforesaid proceedings of the town, having no other way to make our sentiments known. And we request that this Protest may be entered in the Town Book, to let posterity know that there were a few in this Town who dared to stand forth in favor of an injured and oppressed Country, treated with every species of wickedness used by tyranny to enslave mankind, and that it is a matter of great grief to us that the CAUSE OF LIBERTY is treated with such indignity by some of the inhabitants of the Town of Barnstable.

It appears from some of the records, that Silas Blish lived for a time at Falmouth, though he died in Barnstable.

1769. Mar. 17. "Voted to remit to Silas Blish, Constable for the year 1767, Nathan Bodfish, son of Solomon, his pole tax."

It would appear from the following extract from the Church records, that Silas strayed from the fold for a time.

"To Bro. John Enor and Silas Blish and likewise Mary Lovell:—

Whereas you have for several months past, in a disorderly and irregular manner, withdrawn yourselves from y^e communion of this Chh and joined with those who are led under the domination of their scandalous immortality, and much pains has been taken with you to bring you to a sense of your error, yet all to no purpose; now we apprehend ourselves bound, under faithfulness to Christ, our Master, and to your souls, to signify to you that we look upon you to have violated your solemn covenant, bonds and engagements and to have gone contrary to that gospel rule I Cor. V-II: We do therefore in y^e name of Christ admonish you to repent of your sin and error and to return to your duty, and we pray God to give you a sight of sense of your sin and repentance for it; and till such time as you manifest tokens of repentance, you are to look upon yourself as suspended from communion with us in special ordinances.

1745. Sept.8. Sylvanus Blush made a confession before the Church for defaming Sybell Carrier, by spreading a discreditable report concerning her and was restored to full communion.

Sylvanus Blish was surveyor of highways in 1759, 1765, 1772, 1774, and 1777.

Was admitted as a freeman in 1761, Sept. 15.

*Daniel Blish enlisted from Colchester, 23 July 1777. for three years, in Capt. Gamaliel Painter's Company, war of the Revolution.

Silvanus and Esther Blish are frequently mentioned in the Marlboro' church records. He and his brother David (49) seem to have been chasing each other down the pages of the baptismal register from 1752 to 1775, twenty children having been baptized in that time.

Sylvanus Blish d. 11 Oct. 1785, and his son Ezra was appointed Administrators of his estate.

MARLBOROUGH.

The Town of Marlborough was organized in 1803, from parts of Colchester, Hebron, and Glastonbury, three Towns which belonged to three different Counties. The Marlboro' Church records, however, antedate the Town organization.

Abigail, w. of John⁴ Blish d. 30 June 1777, and he m. (2) according to the Church records, 30 Nov. 1777, widow Ann Loomis, of Colchester.

The Gardner Genealogy states that John^t Blish m. 31 Aug. 1784, Sarah dtr. of William and Esther (Denison) Gardner, of Stonington, Conn. She was b. 28 Dec. 1763.

CHILD, of this marriage.

158.+JOHN DENISON,^s b. Feby. 1786, at Colchester, Conn.

1756. Sept. 21. John Blish was admitted as a freeman.
 1755. Mar. 2. John Blush and Abigail, his wife, confessed to the breach of several covenants and that they were guilty of fornication, and were restored to their former charity. Mar. John Blush and Abigail his wife were received in the covenant.

(It may be asked how a man and his wife could be guilty of the offense named. Whenever a couple anticipated their marital privileges, they were compelled to confess their fault before the congregation and judging by the frequency of these confessions and the ease with which they were "restored to the former charity," the offense does not seem to have been regarded as very serious. The publication of bans months before marriage was largely the cause of this infraction of the commandments.)

- 1759 and 1765. John Blish was tithingman for Westchester.
 1777. He was surveyor of highways, and again in 1780.
 1777. Sept. 16. Took the oath of fidelity to the State of Connecticut.
 1779. Dec. 13. "Voted to appoint a committee to remove encroachments on highways; John Blish was one."
 1780. Nov. 14. "Voted to appoint a committee to procure provisions for the Continental Army. Capt. Eliphalet Bulkley, Messrs. John Blish, Henry Deming, and John Henry chosen such committee. Capt. Joseph Isham was appointed to receive and pack said provisions, forward the same and make return."
 1780. Dec. 18. "Voted that every person that shall deliver indian corn at 4^s p^r bushel, Rie flower at 16^s p^r C weight, wheat flower at 24^s p^r C weight, to y^e amount of 1½^d on y^e pound on their several lists for y^e year 1780, shall be allowed for y^e 1½ per cent paid in grain and flower, as afors^d 4^d on y^e pound on y^e tax this day laid on y^e inhabitants of this town, for y^e purpose of raising grain &c., s^d corn and flower to be delivered to Mess^{rs} Pierpont Bacon, John Blish, Dudley Wright and Asa Foot, by ye first day of March next."

"Voted to choose Gad Worthington in ye room of John Blish, one of ye committee to receive in provisions for ye publick."

1801. Mar. 6. Reuben Blish took his deceased father's ear mark, which is a slit in the left ear and a half crop on the under side of the right ear.

John Blish died about 1800. His son Reuben was appointed administrator of his estate, 3 June, 1800. There is a discrepancy as to his marriages. The Colchester deed records show that, "Anna Blish, of Colchester, wd of John, leased her right of dower in the estate of her husband, John Blish, at a rental of $10 per annum to Reuben Blish, he to pay the taxes. Dated 1 Apr. 1801. This is inconsistent with his marriage to Sarah Gardner, who survived him. There is no doubt that John Denison⁵ was the son of this John⁴ Blish, as is shown by a deed from John D. Blish, of Hamilton, N. Y., to John Sparrow, for "land set off to me in the estate of John Blish, in Colchester, Conn."

The Westchester Church records show his marriage, 30 Nov. 1777, to Widow Ann Loomis, and the Gardner Genealogy is authority for his marriage with Sarah Gardner, and the undisputed birth of John Denison (158) confirms it, Denison being the maiden name of Sarah Gardner's mother. The relationship of all of the children to John⁴ Blish is abundantly proven by reference to the deed records of Colchester.

1784. July 9. John Blish was admitted to full communion. This was probably John (154), who would be 24 years old.

- 1761 Daniel Skinner of Colchester, Conn., deeded lands in Bolton, Conn., to Joseph Blish for £70. The deed concludes as follows:—“In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the 25th day of August, in the first year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Third of Great Britian &c. King, anno domini 1761.
Daniel Skinner, SEAL.”
- Joseph^t Blish took the oath of fidelity and was Town Collector in Bolton, Conn., in 1771.
- He removed with his family, to Middlefield, Mass., about 1780, at which time he sold his lands in Bolton to Joshua Pearl, and was one of the early settlers of that place. The Town was not organized until 1783, when the first Town Meeting was held. Most of the settlers came from Connecticut, from the Towns of Bolton, Hebron and Windsor.
- In March, 1784, he was elected one of the two Wardens of the Town. Town Meeting was held at his house in 1785, there being no Town House.
1783. Apr. 24. He was chosen one of the school committee, with Benjamin Blush, Timothy Macklewain and John Jones and they established the first public school in the Town.
1783. Nov. 19. A highway was laid beginning between the lands of Benjamin Blish and Warren Mack, and touches the lands of Joseph Blish.
1783. Apr. 24. “It was voted to raise £30 to support the gospel. Elisha Mack, James Dixon and Joseph Blush were chosen as a committee to procure preaching.” Voted that the committee be paid for their own and horse expenses.” He was also put on a committee to find the center of the Town.

1785. May 2. £20 was voted and the same committee reappointed "to dispose of said money."

In pursuance to the above Directions of the Selectmen, The above Described Inhabitants are hereby Notified to assemble at the time and place above mentioned.

Middlefield, February 16, 1786.

Joseph Blish, Constable."

The location of the Meeting House was not settled until June, 1790. Several different sites having been proposed and considered. The long drawn out contention over the location of this church, forms one of the amusing chapters in the history of the Town. The house was built and finished in 1791.

The Rev. Jonathan Nash was called to preach, 2 Aug. 1792, being the first regular minister. This church, repaired and somewhat remodeled, is still in use as a house of worship. The first meetings were held in the barn of David Mack. The names of Joseph Blush and Elizabeth Blush, appear on the first list of members.

Joseph⁴ Blish d. at Middlefield, Mass., 8 May 1788, and was buried in the old parsonage lot, east of the church. The inscription on his tombstone reads as follows:- "In Memory of / Mr. Joseph Blush/who died May 8th/1788, in the 60th/year of his age."

David and Zeruah Blish were communicants in the church at Marlborough in 1754 and all of their children were baptized there.
They are frequently mentioned in the church records and were members all of their lives.

The following entries in the Eastbury Church records show the atmosphere of the times.

1776. Oct. 29. “We heard of the death of Solomon Andrews who died in the army at Ticonderoga, 8th of Oct. 1776.”
1777. Jany. 14 “We heard of the death of Ebenezer Brooks, a captive in New York.”

David Blish

1777. Jany. 18. "We heard of the death of Jonathan Strickland a captive in New York."

The following entry in the Glastonbury, Conn. Town Records, illustrates an old custom of "livery of seizin."

"Execution was issued on judgment of David Blish vs. Ichabod Waddams, now of Pittsfield, County of Berkshire, Province of Mass. on the first Tuesday in November, 1776, for £41-11-11. Execution dated 20th February Anno Domini 1767 and in the 7th year of his Majesties reign.

Geo. Wyllys, Clerk.

1767. Mar. 21th. "By virtue of said writ I siezed a piece of land which was appraised at £31-4^s. I thereupon delivered the seizin and possession of said piece of land to said David Blush by turf and twig in full satisfaction of said sum of £31-4s.

Test: John Findley, Constable."

The old English law forms were well observed in those days. A deed from John Waddams, of New Lebenon, County of Berkshire, Provine of Mass., Bay, Admr. of the Estate of Caleb Waddams. late of Glastonbury, deceased, in consideration of £56-2^s7^d, conveys lands in Glastonbury, Conn. The deed is dated "29 day of March, in the 9th year of the reign of our sovereign Lord, George the third, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. Anno Domini 1769."

In two deeds from David Blish to Nathan Dickerson, dated 1 May 1778 and 14 Nov. 1780, the words, "The reign of our sovereign Lord, King George, &c." are erased by drawing a pen through them. King George was persona non grata at that time.

In all of the deeds up to this time pounds, shillings and pence were used in expressing the consideration, but in a deed from Abraham Skinner to David Blish, dated 14 Mar. 1801, the consideration is stated in dollars.

"A list of Capt David Miller's Co., Lt Col. Obediah Hosford's Reg^t that march^d in Sept^r 1776 to East Chester to join Gen^l Washington's Army: * * * David Blush, Sergt."

He was aslo a Sergeant in Capt. Rudd's Co. in Co. Chapman's Regt. in the Revoutlinary War. This regiment under Brig. Genl. Taylor, engaged in the atempt to dislodge the British at New Port in Aug. 1778, and was also present at the battle of Rhode Island. David Blush (Blish) enlisted 2 Aug. and was discharged 24 Sept. 1778.

The only Town office he is recorded as holding is that of highway surveyor, in 1794.

David⁴ Blish d. according to the inscription on his tombstone, in the Marlboro' cemetery, 26 Oct. 1817, tho' the Church record has it 1816. His wife Zeruiah d. 27 Jany. 1813, according to her inscription in the cemetery, but an old Bible record says "1 Feb. 1814, in the 85th year of her age," and the Church record has the same date and says "age 84."

Administration was granted on his estate to his son Roger, 10 Feby, 1818, which would indicate that the tombstone record is correct. His estate was small at the time of his death, most of it having been previously distributed, Roger⁵ holding the homestead in Marlboro.'

Lieut. Joseph⁵ Blish has the most extensive record of any of the family in Barnstable. Owing to the fact that there are five Josephs in succession, it is often difficult, and sometimes impossible, to decide which one is intended. The following seems to indicate Lieut. Joseph.

1761. Nov. 25. Joseph Blish Jr. chosen hog-reve.
 1762. 11. Mar. Southworth Hamblen chosen Constable, but was excused on account of his incapacity, and at his request the Town chose Joseph Blish Jr. who was sworn.

 1765. He was chosen one of the Wardens.

1776. July 23. The Selectmen were instructed to offer £1 to each soldier or non-commissioned officer who would enlist for three months, over the amount given by the General Court.
"Joseph Blish's mark—a slit on the right ear and a half crop the fore side of the left ear."
1776. Oct. 8. Chosen one of the five school agents.
*Joseph⁴ (21) was on the first committee.
1777. Apr. 15. Joseph Blish Jr. on committee to wait upon the Committee of the General Court.
1777. May 20. "Motion made and seconded, whether the Town would give their representatives instructions to proceed to the settlement of a constitution, agreeable to a resolve of the General Court of May 5th. current. This question being put it passed in the negative by a great majority. Voted to choose a committee to give their representatives instructions. Capt. Sam¹¹ Crocker, Edward Bacon Esq^r. Capt. Sam¹¹ Hinckley, Lt. Joseph Blish and Capt. Benj. Gorham, appointed a committee for that purpose."

1777. Captain Jenkins being chosen to represent the Town in General Court, his instructions "not doubting his wisdom" enjoin the greatest caution and deliberation in all of the great affairs of the government in a time of great public distress and danger. "We further instruct you to use your utmost endeavors and influence that it be commended by the General Court to the several Towns, as soon as may be, to chose delegates to meet in congress for the purope of forming a plan of civil Government for this State."
1778. Feby. 3. The Town appointed a committee to assist the Selectmen in filling up the quota of men required for service as soldiers, and an adition of £2 per month was offered. Also a committee to request other Towns to unite in a convention for the purpose of petitioning the General Court for an abatement of the county's quota of men for the public service abroad, in consideration of the peculiar situation of the Towns on the Cape. Sam¹¹ Crocker, Joseph Hallett, Edw. Bacon Esq^r, Lt. Joseph Blish and Shearjashub Bourne Esq.^r were the committee.

"James Otis and 29 others petitioned that Edward Bacon Esq^r Bacon be excluded from public councils, on the ground that he was not lawfully elected and making serious charges. Capt. Sam¹¹ Crocker, Joseph Hallett and Lieut. Joseph Blish were chosen to investigate the - charges and report. They reported completely exonerating Esq^r Bacon and severely condemning those who had signed the petition, but say that some of the names had been very surreptitiously obtained."

1779. Mar. 18. Again on committee to examine John Crocker's accounts.
1779. Mar. 31. "Voted to raise money for a school or schools. Voted to raise the sum of £450 for one grammar school-house and other schools for six months. Voted to chose 9 agents, 3 for each district. Brig^r Otis, Lieut. Joseph Blish Jr. and Mr. Nathan Foster chosen for the west part of the Town.
1779. "At a meeting of the Church held May sec^t 1799 to make choice of a Church Treasurer in the room of Col. Otis, deceased, Joseph Blish was then chosen, who accepted. He was then directed not to call in any money due the Church because of the great depreciation of the paper currency at that time." The next entry on this subject needs no comment. "At a meeting of the Church, Mar. 4. 1783, the Church voted to have the Treasurer proceed to collect the Church dues, with interest on them." Paper currency was better by this time.
1780. May 2. Joseph Blish Jr. and 14 others were appointed a committee to take the new constitution into consideration and report at the next meeting.
1780. Again on committee to employ school masters, and on committee to examine Major Hamblin's account and report. May. 23. WILL OF LIEUT. JOSEPH BLISH.

In the Name of God, Amen!

This first day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirteen, I, Joseph Blish of Barnstable in the County of Barnstable in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Yeoman, being advanced in life, but through the goodness of God of sound and disposing mind and memory, am minded to settle my affairs while I am indulged with an opportunity therefor, do therefore make out and ordain this present writing to be my last will and testament.

126. ELISHA⁵ BLISH.

ELISHA⁵ s. of Silas⁴ (37) and Mercy (Tobey) Blish, was, b. 3 Dec. 1758, at Barnstable, Mass. He was m. 2 June 1790, to Rebecca Linnell, widow and third wife of John Linnell. The first wife of John Linnell was Mercy Sturgis; his second, Ruth Linnell, a sister of Rebecca, and both were dtrs. of James Linnell. By Rebecca he had one child, Abigail. By the ecclesiastical law of England it was illegal for any man to marry his deceased wife's sister, and the issue of such marriages was declared to be illegitimate. Taking advantage of this law, the other heirs of John Linnell claimed his large estate, to the exclusion of his widow and daughter, but before any settlement was made the daughter died, the widow married and the law was changed, and Rebecca finally came into possession of nearly all of her first husband's estate. She was a character in Barnstable, and was familiarly known as "Aunt Beck." In her early life she was neat, industrious and very economical, but in later years her economy degenerated into parsimony. She began to hoard and save the most useless articles and to store them away, until her house was literally filled and over-run with old tubs, pails, cracked pots and kettles, broken crockery, disabled furniture, old bones etc., while the walls were festooned with useless clothing, bunches of dried herbs, feathers and scraps of various kinds, until there was hardly room to get about in the house. Notwithstanding this idiosyncrasy, she was a woman of strong mind and brooked no control. Elisha Blish, her husband, was a shoemaker by trade, a very worthy man, and an exemplary member of the Methodist Church. He mildly protested, but Aunt Beck would have none of his interference, and as a result lost much of her fortune by lending money to unworthy people or upon worthless security. In her religious opinions she was strictly orthodox, and hated the Methodists, mainly however, because they called at her house and her husband contributed to the support of that church. She died 7 Nov. 1830, age 86 years. She died on Sunday and on Thursday preceding, her attendants began removing the accumulated rubbish which was known as "Aunt Beck's Museum." She heard them and asked them if it was thundering. Some evasive answer satisfied her, but her curiosities were ruthlessly burned or scattered. The old house was transformed, cleaned and papered and new furniture brought in. Her tombstone says: "In memory of Mrs. Rebekah, wife of Mr. Elisha Blish. She died Nov. 16th 1830, in the 86th year of her age. She died willingly, In hopes of a glorious resurrection." Forty-five days after her death there was a wedding party at the house, and Elisha⁵ Blish married Rebecca Linnell, a grand-niece of his wife, then aged 29. The intentions were published at Barnstable, 8 Dec. 1830, and they were married 22 Dec., by the Rev. Hector Brownson. The remaining sixteen years of his life were spent in comfort, though the old man said on one occasion, that his second wife was not as "economical" as his first.

1806. Mar. 10. Jabez Howland was selected to take care of the Town lands that formerly belonged to Parker Lumbart and Elisha Blish.

Apr. 7. "Voted not to pay the account presented by Elisha Blish."

1808. Mar. 22. James Merchant and Elisha Blish chosen to prevent trespass on the school lot, so-called.

 Sept. 2. He was put onto the committee to find the most proper and convenient place for the meeting house to stand. They reported and recommended that it stand on the main road between Mr. Joseph Blush and Widow Ford's" This recommendation does not seem to have been adopted, as another committee was chosen, 24 Aug. 1789, "to pitch upon a spot" for the meeting-house between Oliver Blush and Josiah Leonard's. Even this did not settle the matter definitely. The question came up again, 30 June, 1790, and it was voted to "set the church on the ledge south of Oliver Blush's."

Hope Blish⁶ met her death by a singular accident. She climbed upon a stone fence to get some wild cherries from a tree that stood near the wall. The fence gave way and she was thrown to the ground and some large stones fell upon her, causing injuries from which she died in a short time.

Asa Blish was a very skillful swimmer and undertook to swim across the Connecticut river and back. He went across and started back, but was taken with cramp and sank before any one could reach him.

Ezra Blish was a farmer. Was a very devout man and a consistent christian. He was a private in the Mass. line in the war of the Revolution. Was Surgeon's Mate in the Conn. line. In 1834, at the age of 75 he was allowed a pension dating from 1818, and received $1526.36 for arrearages and an allowance of $96. per year. The census of 1840 gives his name as one of the revolutionary pensioners.

(No general pension laws were passed by Congress until March, 1818, when it was provided that survivors of the Revolutionary war who had served nine months, or more, in the Continental Army or Navy, could become pensioners of the Government. Prior to that time, relief had been given only to those who had been disabled in the service, or to their widows or minor children.)

In 1831 ten residents and three from the outside, called a meeting to organize a Baptist Church in Marlboro, Conn. Aaron and Oliver Phelps and Ezra Blish were the leading spirits. Meetings were held in the north-east schoolhouse until 1838. The membership had increased to 38 at this time, but it gradually fell off afterwards, and meetings were discontinued. Ezra Blish and the other guiding members had died in the mean time.

Barzillai Little d. 13 Dec. 1835, and his wife, Betsey, d. 8 Aug, 1838, and both are buried at Middlefield, Mass.

The family claim that all of the children were born in Middlefield, Mass, in which conclusion the compiler cannot coincide. The fact that their births are recorded there, is not conclusive. It was customary upon removal to a new place, to there record the births of all the children, whether born there or not. For instance the births of all the children of Tristram Blish (14) are recorded in Colchester, Conn. The first four of them are known to have been born in Barnstable, Mass., and were recorded there before he moved to Colchester. It is quite probable that at least the two oldest children were born in Connecticut.

Barizillai Little served for a few months as trumpeter in the Conn. Light Horse, under Capt. Joel Loomis and Major Backus. He enlisted 7 Sept. 1776, and was discharged, with the Company, 4 Oct. 1776. In Sept. 1776, this company was ordered to join the army near New York. In Nov. 1776, the following general order was entered: "A relief having come for his Light Horse, under Major Backus, that corps is now dismissed, with the General's hearty thanks for their faithful services and the cheerfulness and alacrity they have shown on all occasions." They were discharged when Washington began his famous retreat from New York through New Jersey.

There probably were other children, possibly William, Harvey and Volney.

Joseph⁵ Blish Jr. Removed from Connecticut to Middlefield, Mass. with his father, Joseph⁴ (47). The exact date is not known, but he was there in 1783, as appears from the following record:

- "1783. May 28. Voted that Joseph Leonard and Joseph Blish Jr. be grave diggers or sextons for the ensuing year."
 "1785. Mar. 14. Joseph Blish Jr. and Lewis Taylor chosen grave diggers." He soon after left Middlefield and went to Burlington, Vermont, and lived in that vicinity until his death.
 "1784. Aug. 9. Intentions of marriage bet. Joseph Blish Jr. and Sevila Taylor was published according to law, per me, Solomon Ingham, Tⁿ Clerk."

Joseph Blish served in Capt. Olcotts Company, in Col. Wolcotts Regt. of Conn. troops in the Revolutionary war. His name appears on a roll dated Winchester, Sept. 25, 1776, and shows that he marched Aug. 19, and was 44 days in service. It is also shown by the records, that he was a private in Capt. Cone's Company, in Col. J. Well's Regt. of Conn. Militia, in the Revolutionary war. His name appears on a roll not dated, but opposite his name appears:—"Marched Aug. 23, 1779; Joined Aug. 26, 1779. Discharged Oct. 26. Days in service, 67."

His descendants claim that he was a revolutionary pensioner, but the records of the Bureau of Pensions show that he applied for a pension Aug. 17th, 1832, by the name of Joseph Blush. He was then living at Williston, Vermont. The service claimed in his application is as follows:-

- "Fall 1778. 1 mo. Private in Capt. Robert's Co. Conn.
 Aug. 1779. 3 mos. Private in Capt. Cone's Co. Col. Wyllys' Regt. Conn.
 Aug. 1780. 2 mos. Private in Capt. Ezekiel Olcott's Co., Col. Chapman, Conn.

This record says that he enlisted at Bolton, Conn., and that his claim was rejected "for want of proof of service." The records now in the War Dept. known as the "Record Pension Office" were at the time in a chaotic condition and not available for proof. The fact that he spelled his name Blush, while the record says Blish, may have injured his chances. All of his descendants adhere to the change of spelling. He d. in Jany. 1849 or 1850, He was hale and strong to the last. Went to sleep in his chair and never woke. The story current with his grand-children, is that he walked half a mile, on a bitterly cold day, to visit his daughter, who was surprised to see him in such weather. He sat by the fire-place, while she went to get him a cup of tea, and when she returned he was dead.

Oliver Blush was the principal hotel keeper in Middlefield for many years, and his house was the favorite stopping place in the days of stage coaches. The old building is still standing, but considerably altered. The compiler saw it in 1899. It was the occupied by Mrs. Mary Newton, a most estimable lady, as a Post Office and Circulating Library. She was well acquainted with Oliver Blush, and pointed out just how the house was arranged and used by him, including the bar room, which was in those days an indispensable part of every hotel. He was a jovial man, a good story teller and a very popular landlord.

Oliver Blush d. 18 July 1846, and is buried in the old parsonage lot east of the village. The following curious inscriptions appear on the tombstones of him and his first wife:

"In Memory of / Mrs. Sarah Blush / wife of /Mr. Oliver Blush / who died / July 10th. 1818 / Aged 51 years. / Farewell my friends / Tho' you I love / I hope for better / friends above."

In Memory of/Mr. Oliver Blush/who died/July 18, 1846, /AE. 82 yrs. / Farewell my Friends / Dry up your tears / My dust lies here / Till Christ appears."

In 1815 he erected another factory a little below. This building was 36 by 80 feet and three stories high. In this factory his sons William D. and Oliver succeeded him about 1830. The factory was burned in 1850 and rebuilt. This was destroyed in 1874 by the flood caused by the dam giving away, the building being a total wreck. Oliver⁶ Blush (330) was the sole owner at the time, his brother William D.⁶ having previously withdrawn and established wood-turning works a little below. His building was also destroyed by the flood, and none of them were rebuilt.

Jonathan Webster, M. D. at Gilsum. Lived at Willsboro, Penn.

David^s Blish was a very forceful man and active in all public matters in Gilsum, N. H. He was one of the leaders in the Church, which seems to have been informally organized, at first. He was early, 1694, chosen one of the Deacons, which office he held during his life. A new church building was begun in 1789, but was not finished until 1793, although meetings were held in it from 1790.

1789. Nov. 5. Twenty Pounds, in labor, was voted for underpinning the church, and Ebenezer Kilbourn, Ebenezer Bill, Ebenezer Dart, Samuel Whitney and David Blish were made a committee to see to the work.

In those days it was customary to tax every citizen for the support of the church, and it was not an unusual occurrence for some one to refuse to pay the tax. In July, 1802, Jehiel Holdredge, David Blish and Zadoc Hurd were appointed at Town Meeting, to stand suit with a prominent citizen, who refused to pay his "minister tax," and one hundred dollars was voted to carry on the suit. They were evidently contending for a principle, as the tax could not amount to a tithe of the amount voted to carry on the suit. The contest, however seems to have increased, until it became a reproach to the church, and this tax was gradually allowed to lapse. In 1816 forty men of Gilsum, among whom was Deacon David Blish, obtained a charter for a Congregational Society. Before this, however, the Methodists had organized a society, (1801). Meetings were first held at private houses, and for a time in Dea. Kilbourn's barn. Rev. Elijah Hedding, later Bishop Hedding, preached here in 1806, and four years later married Lucy, dtr. of Dea. David Blish. Nearly all of Dea. Blish's family went over to the Methodist church, and we find Anna, David Jr., John, Lucy and Zeruah Blish and even Lucy, his wife, in the ranks of the early Methodists. The Kilbourn family went over in a body. Deacon Blish stuck to the Congregational church, and in 1819, William Mack was chosen in his place, he having died.

Extracts from the Gilsum, N. H. Town records.

1794. "Voted to sell the School Rite of Land Belongin to the Town. Mr. Saml. Whitney, John Mark, Zadoc Hurd and David Blish to be a Committee to sell s^d Land." The first school houses were probably built that year as we find the following: "Voted to raise one hundred and twenty lb. to Bild four schoolhouses in the town; one in Each Destricks. Chose Capt. holdredge, James Ballard, timothy Dart, Jesse Dart, Capt. kilboern, David Adams, David Blish, Sanuel Bill and Capt. Fuller a Committee to serv the Destricks for Bilding S^d houses."

(The need of schoolhouses is apparent on the record.)

1798. "Voted that David Blish ceep the notes Recd. for the School Rite" Chose Capt, Hurd, Majah Bill, David Blish a Committee to take care of the money Recd. for School Rite."

1804. Aug. The repairs on two bridges were put up at public "vandue" and the "Bridge by Griswold's Mills" was bid off by David Blish, at sixteen dollars.

David^s Blish held many Town offices.

He was Moderator at the Town Metings of 1805-7-8-12
13-14-16.

He was Tithing-man 1789, 1806-14-16-17.

He was Town Treasurer from 1791 to 1794.

He was Town Clerk for nine years.

He was Selectman 1787, 1792-6-7-9, 1801-4-7-8-9-13-14.

He was Justice of the Peace from 1790 to 1815.

He was Representative in the Legislature for Gilsum & Surry 1795, 1801, 1803, 1813 and 1815.

In New England everybody rode on horseback until some time after the beginning of the eighteenth century. The women had side-saddles and rode by themselves, or oftener behind father, brother, husband, or lover, on a pillion, holding on with one arm around him, Every door-yard had a "horse-block" from which to mount. The first wheeled carriage in this section was owned by Dr. Adams, of Keene, N. H. Deacon Blish got one about the same time (1810).

The people ridiculed them, and said it was terrible for the horses. It was a common saying that hauling a buggy was like "dragging a cat by the tail."

It is related that Capt. David Fuller had an encounter with a bear on Surry mountain. He shot and the animal fell. The Capt. thinking him dead, incautiously approached without reloading his gun, when the bear suddenly recovered and attacked him. He fled and climbed a tree, wher the bear guarded him until his cries brought assistance. The bear then fled, running past where Squire David Blish was at work in a clearing, axe in hand. Seeing the bear close upon him he dropped his axe and looked for a club. This was a standing joke on the Deacon for many years. The bear got away.

Lucy Wilcox Blish was a great reader and very fond of society and dress. Some of her silks are still preserved by members of the family. Her father Obadiah Wilcox was b. in Conn. July 1724. d. Surry, N. H. 20 Feb 1810. Her mother, Sarah Talcott was b. in Conn. Mar. 1734. d. Surry, N. H. 21 Sept. 1809.

Dea. David⁵ Blish d. 5 Dec. 1817, at Gilsum, N. H. and is buried there. The inscription on his tombstone reads as follows:

Erected in Memory of. / DAVID BLISH ESQR. / who died Dec. 5th. 1817 / In the 65th. year of his age. / The dead shall be raised incorruptible.

“Lo, where this silent marble weeps,
A friend, a father and a husband sleeps;
A heart within whose sacred cell,
The peaceful virtues loved to dwell.”

Lucy (Wilcox) Blish d. 20 Dec. 1843, at Lawrenceville, St. Lawrence Co. N. Y. in her 90th, year. The Christian Advocate for Decr. 1843, contained the following:- “Died. Dec. 20, 1843, at Lawrenceville, N. Y., at the residence of David Blish Jr., Lucy, wife of the late David Blish and mother of the wife of Bishop Hedding, in the 90th. year of her age. After having lived and served God for so many years in the Church on earth, she has been removed to the Church in Heaven.”

Thomas Blish

Thomas⁵ Blish was a tall man of good figure, with light hair and blue eyes, and while a man of very even temper, he was very firm in his opinions. His wife, Prudence was a small woman, of dark complexion, black hair and snapping black eyes. She was nervous, fiery and high strung, and the very antithesis of her husband.

Thomas⁵ Blish was a farmer, owning several hundred acres of land in Eastbury, which means East Glastonbury.

1790. Mar. 29. "Thomas and Prudence Blish renewed their baptismal covenant."
1793. Dec. 9. Was chosen one of the haywards of the Town.
1796. Dec. 11. Was chosen Tithingman, and again in 1797.
1800. Nov. 3. Was chosen surveyor of highways and also one of the listers.
1806. Oct. 29. "Dr. Joseph Hall was given liberty to set up Inoculation in this Town under direction of the Selectmen." This entry will call to mind the vigorous opposition to vaccination, or "inoculation" as it was first called, as a preventive of small-pox. Dr. Edward Jenner had announced his discovery in England, in 1798, and it was violently condemned both by the physicians and the clergy. The good people of Glastonbury seem to have been disposed to let Dr. Hall try it, "under the direction of the Selectmen.") 1811. Nov. 1. Again chosen hayward.
1813. June 4. "Brother Thomas Blish and Appleton Holms were chosen a committee to let out the Churches moneys now on hand."
1819. Sept. 22. "At the adjourned meeting from our last sacramental lecture, the Church were led to a choice of a deacon, and they made choice of brother Thomas Blish.

1819. Nov. 3. "The Church met according to adjournment. Meeting opened by a lecture. Mr. Thomas Blish gave answer and accepted the Deacons office in this Church. Meeting was then adjourned to our next sacramental lecture." He held this office during the remainder of his life. He had a still on his farm, and made apple brandy and rum. In those days liquors were kept on the sideboard, in every house. As the minister went by, on a cold day, on his way to church, it was not uncommon to call him in and give him a glass of hot toddy. Barrels of hard cider were in every cellar, and were seldom allowed to spoil. About 1828 a temperance movement was started, and waged with such vigor, that it threatened to disrupt some of the congregations. The old Eastbury church was drawn into the conflict. Deacon Goslee and many of the members espoused the temperance cause, while Deacon Blish and others opposed it. Much bitterness was exhibited, but finally better counsels prevailed and harmony restored.

Thomas^s Blish d. 15 Apr. 1831, and is buried in the East Cemetery, which is south of his old farm.

1831. Apr. 20. Administration was granted on his estate to Prudence Blish, widow, and Sylvester Blish, son of the deceased. Bond of $5000 was given, with David E. Hubbard as surety, and David E. Hubbard and Roger^s Blish were Appointed as appraisers. Six months limit was allowed to creditors.

Prudence Blish

Prudence, the widow remained with her son, Sylvester, until he removed to Wethersfield, Illinois, in 1837. She followed in 1838, and we find the following entry in the church records. "At the request of widow Prudence Blish, the Church voted to give her a letter of dismissal and recommendation."

She remained in Wethersfield, Illinois for a time and then went to Rockton Ills. to live with her daughter, Dorothy Talcott, where she remained until her death, which occurred in 1848.

Aaron⁵ Blish after his marriage removed to New York State. He first settled on the river by the flouring mill below Kortright, He remained there for twenty years or more; then sold out and went into the Genesee Valley, near Rochester, intending to settle there, but hearing of the new Ohio country, he went out prospecting. While in Ohio he contracted fever and ague, and soon repented his venture. He returned to the Genesee Valley, but finding his ague no better there he returned to Delaware county, and bought land on Rose's Brook, where he remained until his death. He was a farmer all his lifetime. He was a large man of commanding appearance, and of sterling character.

The exact date when he left Connecticut is not known, but it must have been early, as only one entry is found in the Town records of Glastonbury mentioning his name.

OLD HOMESTEAD OF ROGER BISH, IN MARLBOROUGH, CONN.

In witness wherof I have set my hand the day and date aforesaid.

Roger Blish."

Roger Blish and Demas, his wife, united with the Church at Marlboro' 13 Oct. 1817. Roger Dimmis and Prudence Blish, are on the list of church members in 1828, and Prudence Blish and Mary L. Blish on the list for 1831. All of the children except Daniel were baptized 22 June, 1817.

1827. Jany. 16. "Capt. Theodore Lord, Deacⁿ David Skinner and Roger Blish were made a committee for the purpose of calling a council for the dismissal of the Pastor."
1838. Apr. 4. Roger Blish filed a petition showing that Joanna Blish had been appointed gurdian of her daughters Sarah and Adaline, June 2nd. 1835, and that the estate of said minors was being wasted by reason of the neglect of said guardian. She was cited to appear, and on hearing was removed and Elmon Strong was appointed in her stead, Apr. 14, 1838, and gave bond with Roger Blish as surety.

He was one of the appraisers in the estate of Thomas Blish, and Aaron Hubbard^o Blish. He was a friend and neighbor of Thaddeus Wells, father of Gideon Wells, who was afterwards Secretary of the Navy under President Lincoln. Both were appointed to divide the real estate of Aaron Hubbard^o Blish among his heirs.

Like all of this family, Roger Blish was a large man physically but better than this, was a man of unswerving honesty and fearless in the discharge of what he believed to be his duty. The course he pursued in the matter of his nephew Aaron Hubbard^o Blish's children exhibits this quality.

He died 27 Dec. 1856, in Marlboro, and his remains are interred at Marlboro Centre; his wife, Demis having died 6 Feby. of the same year.

In his will dated 19 Jany. 1854, he gives to his wife Demis the use of one-third of his real estate during life and all of his furniture "to her own use and dispose." Gives to son Daniel, all his lands lying in the Town of Glastonbury, called the "Bayley lot," also all farming tools and other personal property; to daughter Amelia Brainard, daughter Prudence H. Root and son Augustus, $220, each; to son Aaron H. Blish and son Chauncey, $400, each; to daughter Mary Lord $220; to Grand-daughters Harriet and Helen Carrier, $200; to daughter Zeruah Buell $220; "the above legacies to be paid to my son Daniel in two years after my decease."

This will was probated 26 Jany. 1857. The Inventory mentions 255 acres of land, with buildings. Daniel^o Blish administered the estate, and also settled the estate of Demis Blish, his mother, in June 1857.

He also worked with the Allens, four in number, who ran what was known as the Philadelphia line of packets. When the "Kingstonian," a sloop of war, was built in Philadelphia, and the Mexican government failed to produce the money to purchase her, the Russian consul at Philadelphia was so well pleased with the vessel, that he induced the Russian Emperor to buy her. Isaiah Bliss was one of the crew who took her to Russia. The Emperor made a personal visit to the ship and declared he was well pleased with her. He gave a banquet to the officers and crew of the Kingstonian and presented each sailor with twenty dollars. There was also sent over on the Kingstonian a small pleasure boat made largely of mahogany, as a present from the builders of the sloop to the young son of the Emperor. Oliver Blush d. 26 Mar. 1868, at Cleveland, Ohio. His wife Clarissa, d. 4 Jany. 1884, and both are buried in Brooklyn, O. Cemetery.

Oliver Blush was Capt. of Co. B. 3rd. Vermont, during the war of 1812-14. He was shot in the left arm in the battle of Plattsburg, and afterwards drew a pension for this wound. In 1841 he went from Burlington, Vt. to Bloomfield, Mich., where he bought two quarter sections of land, which is now in Pontiac, Mich. All went well for the first year, but the second year they all got sick and becoming discouraged, he sold out and started for Buffalo. A terrible storm on Lake Erie caused him to stop off in Cleveland, Ohio, where he remained. He bought land in what is called Brooklyn, but is now in the City of Cleveland. This land became very valuable. In 1860, one William Fuller was elected County Treasurer of Cuyahoga County, and Oliver Blush and five other farmers became sureties on his bond. He defaulted for a very large amount and fled to Canada, and Oliver Blush lost every foot of his land. He never recovered from this calamity. He was a man universally liked and respected, and was a deacon in the Presbyterian church.

All the data for this family were obtained from Edward T. C. Blush (576) who says that his father said that the name should be spelled Blish and that some of his brothers spelled it that way.

Daniel⁶ Blish was a farmer and one of the two ordained Deacons of the Baptist church at Jay, N. Y., which office he held until his death.

On Feby. 11th, 1811, he was appointed Captain of the Essex company, Lieut. Col. Barnes' Regt. He served as Captain of a company in the 3rd. Batillion of New York Detached Militia, in the war of 1812. His name appears on a roll dated at Camp Plattsburg, Nov. 18th. 1813. Time of service 2 mos. 11 days. He was appointed, 6 Apr. 1815, Major Commandant of the 2nd. Battalion of the 9th. Regt., vice Major Reuben Sanford, resigned.

In 1817, Mar. 4, he was appointed Lieut. Colonel of the Essex Battalion of Infantry.

Daniel⁵ Blish d. 15 May 1820, at Jay, N. Y. of heart trouble.

Beulah Blish, his widow, made application for bounty, 2 Mar. 1854, when she was 72 years old. Her claim was allowed for the actual time her husband served in the War of 1812, stated to be 70 days.

Beulah Wilcox Blish deserves more than a passing notice. Married at 21, she was left a widow eighteen years later, with a family of small children and the care of the farm. Happily she was well fitted by nature for such responsibility. She managed the farm and reared her children with rare judgment, with her firm but remarkably even temperament. She was never known to exhibit anger, and not only cared for her own family, but was noted for her benevolence and kindness to the sick or distressed about her.

She was active to the last, and d. 17 May 1861, after an illness of only 24 hours. The large concourse at her funeral attested the esteem in which she was held in the community.

344. LUCY⁶ BLISH HEDDING.

LUCY,⁶ dtr. of Dea. David⁵ (165) and Lucy (Wilcox) Blish, was b. 4 Aug. 1782, at Glastonbury, Conn. She m. 10 Jan. 1810, at Gilsum, N. H. to Rev. Elijah Hedding. He was b. 7 June, 1780, at what is now the town of White Plains, in Dutchess Co., N. Y.

Elijah Hedding was of English parentage. Though neither of his parents were professors of religion, his mother was seriously inclined and took great pains to instruct him in truth and christian duty. Notwithstanding his home training, he became somewhat uncontrollable, through some evil associations. This condition, happily, did not last long. In 1791 his parents removed to Starksborough, Vermont, an almost unsettled country, and here the boy began to develop, both physically and mentally, and showed an adventurous spirit bordering on recklessness. He was active, both in body and mind, and investigated various forms of religious and irreligious beliefs. He never evaded the issue, being open and frank in all he said or did, until he finally got back to the teachings of his good mother, and became interested in the Methodist church, which he soon joined, and was for a time an exhorter, then a local preacher and about 1800, received a regular license. In 1801 he was appointed to the Plattsburg circuit. It was while here that he became acquainted with the family of David Blish. He was located at many different places, after the manner of the Methodist parsons. In 1824, he was chosen a Bishop of the Methodist church, which office he held with honor to himself and the church for twenty-eight years. He was a remarkable man and universally esteemed wherever he was known.

No children were born to him, but the name Hedding has been handed down through several generations of the Blish family, indicating the honor and esteem in which he was held by the family.

Bishop Hedding d. 9 April, 1852, and his wife did not long survive him. The remains of both repose in the beautiful cemetery, on the east side of the Hudson river, a short distance below Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

John⁶ Blish settled in Woodstock, Vermont, in 1817, and engaged in the tinware business with a partner by the name of Roby. The brick block, on the corner next to Edson's Row, was built by Blish & Roby, in 1830, and they moved into it in December of that year.

In former times the road turned off to the north and passed in front of the ground on which Mr. Foster's barn now stands. On the site of this barn was once a house, on the south side of the highway, built by the Randalls as early as 1788, and occupied by William Randall until 1793. He then sold it to Moses Barnet, and the house went by the name of the "Barnet House" for many years. In 1800 it was occupied by William Rice, sheriff, merchant, etc. Until his departure from Woodstock, about 1810. In 1814, Caleb Simmons went into the house, and in 1817 John Blish purchased the premises described in the deed as "a triangle containing 71 square rods." On the point of the triangle he built his "red shop" which he used for some years, until he moved further down street, near the center of business. The red shop was used for a school house for a long time, until Jonas G. Tribeau bought it of the Blish estate, in 1845, with a small piece of land, and occupied it as a dwelling and wheelwright shop. The remainder of the triangle was sold by John Blish, in 1826, with the Barnet house, to Amos McLaughlin.

In 1835, the Methodists felt strong enough to erect a church. John Blish owned a piece of land bounding on the common, and this he deeded Mar. 5th, 1836, to Hosea Healey and three others, stewards of the M. E. church of Woodstock, and the church was built upon it. John Blish took an active part in the church and was largely instrumental in getting it built. He was also always interested in the improvement of the town. The old elm tree at the corner of Chestnut and Pleasant streets, was set out by John Blish and Mr. Cubley, who brought it from the site of Mr. Watkin's house on Lincoln street. John⁶ Blish d. 1 Sept. 1843, at Woodstock, Vt., and his wife, Merab, d. 5 Jany. 1861, at Chicago, Ill.

William Talcott

Capt. William Talcott emigrated with his family, consisting of himself and wife and three children, in 1810, to Rome, New York, which was then considered the "far west." During the war of 1812, the militia of Oneida county was called out and stationed at Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., under the command of Gen. Winfield Scott, at which time William Talcott held a Lieutenant's commission in a company in the 157th. Regt. of the Militia of the State.

In 1835, he with his eldest son, Thomas B. Talcott, explored the "great west" making the trip with horse and buggy, and selected a location at the junction of Rock and Pecatonica rivers, now known as Rockton, in Winnebago Co., Illinois, to which place he came with his family, in 1837. Here he built grist mills, which were known for many years as the pioneer mills of the country and did the custom grinding for a large section of the surrounding territory. On the 23rd. of March, 1838, he assisted in organizing the First Congregational church, consisting of fourteen members, of which five were of his own family, viz. himself and wife, Dorothy, his daughters Harriet and Prudence and his son Walter. In 1855, when the society had increased and built a church, he donated a bell for it, for which he was thanked by a vote of the church and also by a vote at the Town Meeting, which ordered his name to be engraved on the bell, at the Town's expense.

He was a pronounced abolitionist, and present at the national convention at Buffalo, N. Y. in 1844, which nominated James G. Birney for the presidency, and was one of the seven who voted the ticket in 1860 in Winnebago county, Illinois. He d. 2 Sept. 1864, at Rockton, Ills. honored and respected by the entire community.

Dorothy Talcott

Dorothy Blish Talcott was a large woman, resembling her father. She was a woman of great energy and executive ability, doing her full share in the two pioneer ventures of her husband. She d. 24 Nov. 1879, at Rockton.

Sylvester Blish was a very active and energetic man. He had the fiery and impetuous temperament of his mother, combined with the determination of his father. He was public spirited and active in politics holding many public offices in Connecticut. He was lister in Glastonbury in 1815, 1817 and 1818; was tithingman 1817, 1819 and 1826; was surveyor of highways in 1820, 1821, 1823, 1824, 1825 and 1827; was on board the relief in 1822 and 1823; was collector of taxes in 1825; was grand jurymen in 1828 and 1829; was town agent and fence-viewer in 1830; selectman in 1832 and 1833; and a member of the Connecticut General Assembly in 1835.

He was also prominent in military matters and rose through gradual promotions until he was Colonel in the Connecticut Militia for several years before he left Connecticut, in 1836. He was one of the administrators of the estate of his brother Aaron Hubbard Blish, and also administered upon the estate of his father.

In 1835 a rumor was spread through Connecticut and Massachusetts that the Catholics were colonizing the fertile Mississippi valley with the intention of founding a Catholic hierarchy there, and a movement was inaugurated with the object of sending out Protestant colonies and settlements to counteract the Catholic movement. A stock company was organized in Wethersfield, Conn. for this purpose, the Rev. Caleb Tenney, of Wethersfield, and the Rev. Gardner Spring of New York, being among the leaders of the enterprise. Col. Blish joined the Wethersfield company, which was called "The Connecticut Association." A fund raised, and in 1836, Col. Sylvester Blish, Elizur Goodrich and Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury were chosen to proceed west and purchase lands. Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury was not a member of the association, but had been in the west the preceding year, in the interest of another similar association, so that his experience was valuable. Elizur Goodrich was a surveyor. They went to Illinois, a trip that was not without considerable hardship at that time. Mr. Goodrich became discouraged by the vastness and seeming endlessness of the prairies, but Col. Blish, encouraged by the zeal and hopefulness of Mr. Pillsbury, pushed the work to a completion.

They selected and entered over fifteen thousand acres of land in Henry county, Illinois, and returned to Connecticut. Col. Blish was so impressed with the fertility of the soil in Illinois and the future possibilities of the country, that he determined to make his home there. He sold his lands in Connecticut, and in the spring of 1837, started with his family for Illinois, making the entire trip in a carriage. His wagon, farming utensils and household effects were shipped by water to New Orleans and from thence they came up the Mississippi river to the settlement at Rock Island, about forty miles from the location of the colony lands. These lands were happily chosen. The greater portion lay to the south of a large grove of oak, walnut and hickory timber, about fifteen miles long and six miles wide. A portion of the colony lands were located in the south edge of the timber. To a person reared among the stony hills of Connecticut or Massachusetts, these vast rolling prairies with their rich, black soil, were at once a wonder and an inspiration. A town site was laid out a little to the south of the grove and called Wethersfield. By the forms of the Association, each share of stock gave the owner the right to select a quarter section (160 acres) of prairie land, a twenty acre timber lot and a village lot, which contained two and one-half acres. A number of other colonists arrived the same year, and the season was taken up mainly with the construction of log houses and the raising of small crops to provide for the coming winter. Space forbids any extended account of the privations of these early comers or the growth and final success of the venture. The Catholic scare was purely imaginary, but the results were good for the parties concerned and for the communities planted in the new country. Three other settlements were made in the near vicinity of Wethersfield, one at Andover, by Massachusetts people, one at Geneseo, by New York people and one at Providence by Rhode Island people.

Col. Blish took an active interest in the affairs of the new country and aided and encouraged its development and settlement. He became a large land owner and prospered beyond his most sanguine expectations. In 1853 a railroad was projected which would give connections with Chicago, and into this enterprise he launched with all his accustomed vigor, and in 1855 the railroad was a reality. From this time the real development of the country began. A railroad station was located a little over a half a mile north of the Town site of Wethersfield, which was named Kewanee, that meaning in Indian dialect "prairie hen". Col. Blish owned a quarter section of land adjoining the new railroad station, which is now a part of the City of Kewanee, and completely covered with factories and residences. That is east of the original village of Kewanee, while the City has now extended a mile to the west and taken in his old homestead and orchard, which was just at the south edge of the grove. Even the old Village of Wethersfield is now putting on city airs, with water works, street lights and trolley cars.

Col. Blish was for many years the post master in Wethersfield and held the same office in Kewanee, until his death, being the first post master in both places. For many years after his arrival in Wethersfield, Col. Blish kept the only hotel in Wethersfield. The old oval sign stood upon a post, with the words: "S. BLISH. INN" painted thereon. His house was the stopping place for the stage lines which traversed the country before the advent of railroads.

The greatest obstacle, with which the pioneers had to contend, was the lack of transportation facilities and their great distance from available markets. A limited quantity of wheat was marketed, by teams, at Peoria, Lacon, and other river points, and occasionally at Chicago. The surest source of income was by fattening hogs, butchering and dressing them and hauling the whole carcasses to the river towns and selling them to the packing houses, or by raising cattle and selling them on the hoof to buyers, who took them away in droves to eastern points.

Soon after the settlers arrived in Wethersfield, they organized a Congregational society. Meetings were held at the houses of the members, and Col. Blish's being the largest, was usually used. Col. Blish was the first chorister, and the music was strictly vocal. Later a base viol was added. In the fall of 1838, a log school house was built, and this was used for church services for some ten years.

Col. Blish was also an extensive stock raiser and took especial pride in his horses. He brought the first Morgan horses to Wethersfield, and the effect of his labors is still apparent in the neighborhood. He was an expert horseman, and no animal was too wild for him to handle. He d. 8 Oct. 1855, in the old house on the place on which he located on his arrival in Illinois, a new house which he was building, having been almost ready for occupancy. He is buried in the old Kewanee cemetery, which he donated to the Village, when it was first laid out.

Rhoda Blish

Rhoda Cheney Blish remained on the old farm, living with her son Charles. She was a short, fleshy woman, of fair complexion and blue eyes. She was a great reader and kept herself well informed on all current topics. Left with independant means, she took great pleasure in helping others. A score of grand-children remember her kind words and motherly care. Patient, loving and cheerful, the close of her life was like a beautiful sunset. She d. 9 Jany. 1878, in her 84th, year, and her remains lie beside her husband.

His death, which was sudden and tragic, occurred 16 Nov. 1848. He was building and had nearly completed, a new store; a ladder which was made of two iron-wood saplings, with the ends cut slanting, was standing against the scaffolding; he went up into the scaffold, which gave way and he fell upon the sharp end of the ladder, which penetrated his vitals. He lived but twenty-four hours after the injury, suffering intensely.

The compiler recalls his visits to this place, with pleasure, and the cordial reception accorded to him by the host and his estimable wife.

862. WILLIAM HOWLAND⁸ COOK, b. 23 June 1849, at Vineyard Haven, Mass.863. +ANSEL GRANVILLE⁸ COOK, b. 18 Apr. 1862, at Glasgow, Scotland.

Capt. William Cook came from an old New England family that settled at Wallingford, Conn., and had followed the sea for generations. He received his education at Wilbraham Academy, and then took up the calling of his ancestors, with such success that he became a ship-master before he was twenty-two years old. He was one of the California pioneers, having sailed there in command of a ship in 1849. While on this trip he relieved the crew and passengers of a shipwrecked vessel, with large-hearted generosity and great personal inconvenience and expense. During the war of the Rebellion he had charge of the Consulate at Glasgow, Scotland. His patriotism and sagacity enabled him to detect the outfitting of a privateer for preying upon American shipping, and the proofs which he furnished Mr. Adams at London, which were by him presented to the British Minister, prevented the vessel's departure. For this service, Capt. Cook received the thanks of our government, through Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State.

He bore prosperity with elation, and misfortune and shipwreck with the courage of true manhood. He was an accurate observer and a clear reasoner and had fine conversational powers. The great fund of information which he acquired by extensive travel over the world, made him a most entertaining and instructive companion. His later years were spent in the quaint old Village of Vineyard Haven. When in his latter days, deafness secluded him from general society, he found solace in his books and in Grace Episcopal church, of which he was Junior Warder. He was early at church, seeing that all was in order. He had come thus on the morning of his death, and while the church bell was summoning the congregation, as he stood talking to the Rector, Dr. Oliver, he sank to the floor, and his spirit departed. In the presence of such a departure, one might well say—

“Let me die the death of righteous,
And let mine end be like his.”

His death occurred 28 Aug. 1892.

yours truly
C H Moore

Clifton Haswell^r Moore came from revolutionary ancestry. His grand-father was John Moore, who left an orphan at the age of five years, was apprenticed to an uncle, named Hyde, who lived near the line between Maryland and Delaware. Reared in such a locality, he became accustomed to border warfare and Indian fighting. He enlisted in the 3rd. regiment of New York volunteers commanded by Col. Ganesvort, and was afterward transferred to the first Regiment, commanded by Col. Goose Van Shaick. He was at Fort Stanwix, when it was besieged by St. Leger, with his British regulars and Indians. After the surrender of Burgoyne, his regiment, under Col. Ganesvort, was ordered south to join Gen. Washington's army at or near New York City, and remained with him during all of those masterly movements from New York to Yorktown, that culminated in the surrender of Lord Cornwallis and the independence of the United States. He was discharged from the army at New Windsor, near West Point. He had two sons and four daughters, and the entire family came to Ohio, about 1811, and settled in Geauga and Cuyahoga counties. John Moore lived in Kirtland and Chester, until he died in 1845, aged about 95 years, and he is buried in Chester. Isaac Moore, son of John Moore, was a farmer in comfortable circumstances, owning some 200 acres of land in Kirtland, much of which he cleared off himself. In the winter of 1829-30, he exchanged this farm with the Mormons, for a farm at Warrensville, Ohio. This was the first farm bought by the Mormons from an unbeliever. The Mormons were in full force there at that time, and most of the theological luminaries and dignitaries of that faith were to be seen and heard. Clifton Haswell Moore, as a boy of fifteen, remembers Hartwell, Badger, Rigdon, Alexander Campbell and his father Thomas Campbell, Joseph Smith, the prophet, and his father and brothers, P. P. Pratt, Orson Hyde and the Evangelists, Bouchard, Finney and Foote. He says that Foote could distance Milton and Dante in describing the torments of the damned. He delighted in working up his audience to a pitch of frenzy, by picturing the flames of hell and the torments of everlasting fire and brimstone. Clifton Haswell Moore remained at home, working on the farm until he was sixteen years old, when his father "gave him his time." He went to school at Bedford that summer, and continued, alternately teaching and going to school, until the spring of 1839, when he decided to leave Ohio for the west. About the first of May, 1839, he arrived at Pekin, Illinois, with less than five dollars in his pocket, but willing to do any kind of work that was respectable. He first taught school at Pekin, which then had more wealth than Peoria, though not quite as large in population. He afterward procured employment in the offices of the circuit and county clerks, and began reading law under Bailey & Wilmot, and in July, 1841, he removed to Clinton, in Dewitt county, then a small village of only some twelve families, and began his career as a lawyer and business man. This was in the days of the "circuit riders." Samuel H. Treat was the judge of the court, and his circuit embraced some thirteen counties. A term of court rarely occupied more than three days, and court was usually held twice a year. Young Moore thus had the opportunity to become personally acquainted with Abraham Lincoln, David Davis, and other lawyers eminent in their day, who followed the judge around the circuit. Mr. Moore early saw that the practice of the law, in a country town, would never bring a man independence, and he also foresaw that the black soil of Illinois would some day become very valuable. In 1852 he formed a partnership with Judge David Davis, for the purpose of buying and trading in lands, selling only enough to keep out of debt. This was his master stroke, and it was only a few years, until his law business became a side issue, it requiring all of his time to attend to his lands and farms. The partnership was dissolved by the death of Judge Davis, June 26th, 1886. Mr. Moore became very wealthy, and his wildest dreams as to the future value of Illinois lands, were doubled and trebled, in his lifetime. He saw the little Village of Clinton grow to a prosperous City. His estate was estimated at $2,500,000, at the time of his death. His prosperity enabled him to indulge in the gratification of his tastes, one of which was his passion for fine books. He accumulated and left, at the time of his death, one of the finest private libraries in the west, which included hundreds of volumes of rare books, choice editions, illuminated works and fine bindings.

Personally he was one of the most genial and companionable of men. He was large-hearted, charitable and considerate, an upright and honorable citizen.

In religion he was a liberal, and though he never united with any church he aided them all. He placed pipe organs in three churches in Clinton, and his others benefactions were numerous. He died April 29th, 1901, honored and mourned by the entire community, for which he had done so much.

Pierpont Edward Jones was a self-made man. In his boyhood he earned his own living and secured a fine education unaided by anyone. He served as janitor at the Plattsburg Academy and at the same time pursued his studies. Soon after he began teaching, in which he was eminently successful. When not teaching he followed farming, but all of the time pursued a systematic course of study. After his marriage he followed farming for some twenty-three years. In 1864 he was appointed to canvass that part of the army in and near the Shenandoah valley, for the votes of soldiers from Essex county. In 1865 he was appointed to a position in the Treasury department at Washington, which position he held for eleven years. In 1877 he and his wife purchased the old Blish Homestead, at Jay, N. Y. He resigned his position in the Treasury department, and accepted another in the post office, at New York City, where he remained three years. He then returned to Jay, to spend the remainder of his days on the old farm. He was not idle then, but ever on the alert to assist in any undertaking. His chief characteristics were perseverance, self-reliance and self-sacrifice. He was a ready and fluent debater, and carefully studied all important questions. He was generous to a fault, and the needy always found in him a ready helper. He died 8 Apr. 1892, at Jay, the place of his birth, and the concourse that followed his remains to the cemetery attested their appreciation of a truly worthy and manly man. Beulah Blish⁷ Jones was a fitting mate for her husband and ably seconded him in his efforts. She d. at the old Blish homestead in Jay, in the same house in which she was born, Feby. 1887.

When Daniel^r Blish was about four years old, his father took the family to Essex county, N. Y. About nine years thereafter he again moved to Peru, N. Y. Daniel learned the mill-wrights trade, and in 1839, came west, and for some years followed his trade, at various points. He repaired his brother David's mill at Escanaba, Mich., built a mill at Niles, Mich., another at Summerville, Cass county, Mich. His father-in-law, William B. Gilbert, gave him 80 acres of land in Silver Creek township, near his own, where he began the work of clearing off the timber and making a farm. After establishing himself here and getting his farm in shape, he bought more land, and put himself into comfortable circumstances. In 1854 he built a new house on the farm, and lived there until 1874, when he moved to Dowagiac. His wife, Julia Ann, died in 1886 and he afterwards made his home with his son David, until 1889, and then with his daughter Emily, until his death, which occurred Nov. 5th, 1893. He was an industrious and economical man, though never niggardly. His mechanical skill and love of order was manifested in everything about his farm. He was very fond of music and a proficient performer upon the flute. As a young man he used to play the fife on training days, and at celebrations on the Fourth of July. He was Supervisor of Silver Creek township for ten years, and a Justice of the Peace for 15 years, until he refused re-election.

Julia Ann, his wife, was a very expert seamstress, with fine mechanical skill. It is related, that before her marriage, not being able to persuade her father to build a stairway to the upper rooms, she proceeded to build it herself, and did a creditable job. She was a helpful wife and a good mother, of whom her children are justly proud. Her father, William B. Gilbert, traced his ancestry to Sir Walter Gilbert. His grand-father was a sea captain, and was captured by the British during the Revolutionary war and thrown into prison where he died. His father resided in New York City, where William B. was born. William B. Gilbert served in the war of 1812, and was in the battle of Kingston. His wife, Cynthia Sammons, was of German descent, and her father was a revolutionary soldier. William B. Gilbert came west in 1838, prospecting, and in 1839, brought his family to Michigan, consisting of his wife and six children. He was a slim man of iron constitution and widely known, and went by the name of "Uncle Tommy." He died in 1864, at the age of seventy-three.

His wife was one of those good natured, patient German women, who could do the work of a large family, and at the same time do a good days work weaving. She died in 1866, at the age of seventy-one.

All of the children, excepting Robert Irwin, were b. at Southport, now Kenosha, Wis.

David⁷ Blish was for many years engaged in the lumber trade at Green Bay and Kenosha, Wis. He is described by those who knew him as one of the best of men. Genial, intelligent, and devoted to his family and friends, only words of commendation and praise are spoken of him. His unselfishness and courage are best shown in the tragic manner of his death. On the morning of November 21st, 1847, the propeller "Phoenix" was burned near Sheboygan, Wis. He was on the steamer and did heroic service in rescuing the helpless. He brought many fainting and unconscious women and children from the hold, which was filled with smoke and flames. He was warned by the Captain not to go down again, as the steamer was fast settling, but he insisted in making one more trip, and descended into the hold. He never returned, and was doubtless overcome by the flames and smoke. The vessel shortly went down and he went with her. Mrs. De Nevue, a lady 83 years of age, now residing on Lake De Nevue, near Fond du Lac, Wis., was well acquainted with David Blish, and is authority for the foregoing statement. She speaks of him as "one of the best men I ever knew."

Dr. John Fuller Carpenter spent his youth in Whitehall, N. Y., where he studied medicine with Dr. Rutter. He attended lectures and graduated from the medical college at Castleton, Vermont. He went to Lawrenceville, N. Y., in 1830, to begin the practice of his profession, poor in purse, but rich in determination. The country was new and without roads or other improvements. He was compelled to ride on horseback to make his visits, and to find his own way through the forests by marked trees. Though a frail man physically, his indomitable will carried him through, and he in time accumulated a considerable fortune. He continued his practice until a short time before his death, but was also interested in other lines of business. He d. 30 Apr. 1869, of consumption. His wife Emily⁷ d. at Lawrenceville, N. Y., 2 Dec. 1898, of pneumonia. The compiler has in his possession a letter written by her in June, 1898, which shows her to have been a remarkably intelligent and capable woman. Tipton S Blish

John Hedding⁷ Blish attended school at Middlebury, Vermont; in 1849 he started for California, but meeting his friend Frank Marsh, who afterwards married his sister Mary (644), at Jeffersonville, Indiana, he was prevailed upon to take a position on the engineering corps of the first railroad in Indiana, the "Old Madison" road. He was soon promoted to the position of chief engineer, and held it till the road was completed to Indianapolis and then to Louisville, Ky. It was about this time that he married, and became associated with his father-in-law, in grain, packing and milling business, until 1871, when he accepted a position as chief engineer of a railroad, which was to run from Evansville to Richmond, Ind. This project was abandoned during the financial troubles of 1872-3, and he returned to the grain and milling business, at which he remained until his death. In 1883, his sons Meedy S. and Tipton S., joined their father in the business. The plant was burned in the winter of 1885, and in January, 1886, the Blish Milling Company was organized, the stock being divided among the father, mother and five children, the father and sons having a controlling interest. A new and greatly enlarged and improved plant was erected and completed in July, 1886, increasing the capacity of the mills four fold. John Hedding Blish was for fifteen years Vice President of the First National Bank of Seymour and active in its management. During the last few years of his chief aim was to put his family on a sound financial basis, and in this he was eminently successful. He died 30 July, 1886, shortly after the new mills were completed.

His wife, Sarah Shields Blish, d. 16 Mar. 1896, at Pratt's

Sanitarium, in Chicago, where she and her sister, Mrs. Eliza Shields Dickinson, had gone for a surgical operation. Mrs. Blish was first operated upon, and came out apparently in good condition. Mrs. Dickinson went to the operating room and died there. Mrs. Blish a few hours afterward became worse, and died without knowing of her sister's death.

The veneration of the children for this father and mother speaks more strongly for them than any words others might utter.

Wait Talcott

When Wait^r Talcott was three years of age, his father removed to Rome, N. Y., which was at that time considered "the far west," by Connecticut people. He remained here until he was nineteen years old, when he entered a store at Booneville, N. Y. After serving a sort of apprenticeship here, he engaged in business on his account at Utica, until 1830. He then went to the Village of Horseheads, Chemung county, where he was married. In the fall of 1838 he left New York for Illinois, reaching Rockton, on Oct. 12th after a six weeks' trip, made in a wagon, with his wife and child. His father, Capt. William Talcott, had preceded him in 1837. He almost immediately united with the Congregational church, and became actively interested in all vital interests of the new community. He was one of the incorporators of Beloit College, and was a member of the first Board of Trustees, and for many years thereafter. He was also one of the organizers of Rockford Female Seminary, which has had a successful career. In common with his father and brothers, he was a pronounced anti-slavery man, and as early as January, 1844, introduced into the church of which he was a member a series of strong anti-slavery resolutions, which after some discussion, were adopted. In the presidential election of that year, he was one of seven in Winnebago county, who voted for James G. Birney, the Liberty party candidate. He lived to see the principles he then advocated become the settled policy of the nation. In the fall of 1854 he was elected State Senator, representing the counties of Winnebago, Carroll, Boone and Ogle. He served four years with credit to himself and satisfaction to his constituents.

In the spring of 1854, he, with his brother Sylvester, formed a partnership with John H. Manny, the inventor, and began the manufacture of the John H. Manny Combined Reaper and Mower, at Rockford, Ill. The company made 1100 machines that year, and the fall Ralph Emerson and Jesse Blinn were added to the partnership. With increased capital the output was largely increased in 1855, and continued to grow from year to year. Later the business was incorporated as Emerson, Talcott & Company, Wait Talcott having shifted the burden of active management of the business, upon the shoulders of his son-in-law, Ralph Emerson and son William Ariel Talcott. Credit must be given the promoters and managers of this company for starting Rockford upon a career of manufacturing, which has since made the city noted.

The firm were sued by Cyrus H. McCormick, for an alleged infringement of his patents, in the construction of their reapers. The case was bitterly contested, and while it cost the defendants over $75,000 to defend their rights, they were successful. Among the lawyers who were engaged by them were Abraham Lincoln, Edwin M. Stanton and Peter H. Watson, who first became acquainted at that time, and who afterward as President, Secretary of War and Assistant Secy. of War, played so important a part in the defense of the Nation during the civil war. The firm paid Lincoln $1,000 as a retainer, which he afterward said enabled him to stump the State against Stephen A. Douglas, and introduced him to the country at large.

The personal friendship formed between Mr. Lincoln and Wait Talcott during this suit, was maintained ever after, and after the passage of the Internal Revenue Act, President Lincoln appointed him Collector for the Second District of Illinois, and the following letter is treasured by the family:—

“Executive Mansion,
Washington, Aug. 27, 1862.

“Hon. Wait Talcott:

Dear Sir— I have determined to appoint you Collector. I now have a very special request to make of you, which is that you will make no war upon Mr. Washburne, who is also my friend, of longer standing than yourself. I shall even be obliged if you can do something for him if occasion presents.

Yours truly,

A. Lincoln.”

The office thus conferred was held for five years. The letter shows the character of Lincoln, who made this appointment in opposition to the clamor of some congressmen and politicians for the appointment of favorites.

Mr. Talcott was in Washington just after the assassination of President Lincoln, and having been selected by citizens of Illinois, then in Washington, attended the funeral services as one of the mourners representing the State.

At the breaking out of the rebellion, Mr. Talcott, though beyond the age of military service, paid a large bounty to Charles H. Reddington, a veteran, who represented him.

On the 7th of August, 1873, Mr. Talcott was called upon to part with his wife, Elizabeth Anna, whose death was mourned by a wide circle of friends. She was widely known for her kindness to the sick and the needy, whom she aided not only pecuniarily, but with her cheerful presence and sympathy. She was a lineal descendent of Archbishop Cranmer, who in 1556, perished in the flames during the religious persecutions of Bloody Mary.

Wait Talcott was active and interested in everything pertaining to the welfare of his City, State and Nation. He was President of the Early Settlers Association of Winnebago County, and during his whole life never relaxed his efforts as a good citizen, in every walk in life. Personally he was a man whom it was a pleasure to meet. Wealth and prosperity never in any way dimmed the rugged plainness of his daily life. While always courteous and considerate, there was not in him the slightest element of a trimmer; to the contrary he was outspoken and fearless in all that he deemed to be right. Reminders of his good efforts are abundant in Rockford, where he has left enduring monuments to his zeal and integrity.

William H. Blish

William H. Blish learned the carpenter's trade in Connecticut and followed it some after coming to Wethersfield, Illinois, in 1837. For several years he lived on a farm west of the village. He then moved to the village and engaged in merchandising, at the corner of Tenney and Church streets, opposite the present site of Wiley's carriage shop. About 1847, he, with his father, Sylvester Blish, built a hotel, just east of the store, which they ran for over ten years, it being the only hotel in this section, until after the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad came through Kewanee. It was the stopping place for the stage lines and the engineers of the railroad made it their headquarters for some time. About 1855, in company with Zerah Chapin, he built a grist mill and did a large and successful business until the failure of the wheat crop in 1860 and 1861. The farmers in this section of the country gave up raising wheat and it was unprofitable to ship wheat from other sections of the country. He then, in company with Nathaniel Mayhew, moved the mill to Neponset, Ills., locating it upon the railroad tracks. The business at this point proved unprofitable and they sold it out at a great sacrifice.

He was repeatedly honored with public offices by his fellow citizens. During the last forty years of his life he always held some official position in his town. He was County Treasurer, Justice of the Peace, until he refused to be elected, Supervisor for several terms, Town Collector, year after year, School Treasurer for twenty-five years, and Town Clerk nearly as long. His office in the corner of his old hotel which he occupied as long as he lived, was the headquarters for all Town business, and the people seemed to think they could not do business elsewhere. Here he was always to be found, genial, affable, sensible and level-headed; ready to make a deed or mortgage, draw a will, or have a friendly smoke and talk on any subject. Very few suits begun in his court ever came to a trial; he usually made the litigants see their rights or mistakes and come to an amicable settlement. He was a life-long member of the Congregational church, and for a number of years was chorister. As a neighbor he was kind and generous, ever ready to lend a helping hand, or to give words of cheer and sympathy. He died at his old home where he had lived for 58 years, 15 July, 1895, in the 84th year of his age, leaving a spotless record.

Charles C. Blish

Charles Cheney Blish went to school in Glastonbury and then finished a course at Middletown, Conn., paying especial attention to surveying. He came to Illinois with his father when seventeen years old. He was married at the age of twenty. His wife's parents lived on Walnut creek, south of Lafayette, and the marriage was somewhat opposed on both sides by his parents, on account of his age, and by her's because he was a "Yankee", they being Pennsylvanians. The youngsters went to a Justice and were married, and all parties acquiesced in the inevitable. In the winter of 1841-2 he taught the school in Wethersfield, with marked success, and the next spring was appointed Deputy County Surveyor. In 1843 he was elected County Surveyor, and held the office for eight years, during which time the settlement of the country demanded his constant services, in locating lands. On account of his knowledge of the lands in his county, his services were frequently called for in after years to settle disputed corners. At the termination of his term as County Surveyor, he took up farming, which he followed the remainder of his life. He made cattle his specialty, and about 1865 started a herd of short-horns, and in a few years had one of the finest herds in the State. He took many prizes in the Illinois and Iowa State fairs, and at the Fat Stock Shows in Chicago, and was a member of the National Short-Horn Breeders' Association. He was one of the organizers of the Henry County Fair, for some years was Secretary and then President. Upon the adoption of Township organization he was for several years Town Clerk and was School Director for a quarter of a century. He was connected with the First National Bank of Kewanee, and for eighteen years was its President, retiring only a short time before his death. The local paper said of him: "Mr. Blish has always been one of the foremost men of Kewanee in any and all public enterprises for the advancement of the town. In matters of importance and in a social way, Mr. Blish stood very high, and his influence was as strong as any citizen in this community. As a business man he was successful and as a citizen he was the friend of all, and we know of no one who will be missed more from the every-day life of our town than Charles C. Blish."

His death, which occurred on the 15th of Dec. 1890, was entirely unexpected. He was about town all day, pursuing his usual avocations. Almost the last act, was to take to the post office a batch of invitations to attend the celebration of his "Golden Wedding", which was to have been the 23rd of the same month. After retiring he was attacked with an excruciating pain in the region of the heart, and died before any aid could be summoned. His funeral services were conducted by the Masonic Lodge of Kewanee, of which he was a charter member, and the pastor of the Congregational church, of which he was also a member.

Elizabeth P. Blish came west with her father's family, in 1838, and they settled on Walnut creek, in Knox county. She taught the school there for two years. Among her other accomplishments, she was known as the most skillful horse-back rider in the neighborhood, in days when this form of locomotion was common. After her marriage she always lived in Wethersfield, excepting a couple of years spent in Knoxville, where two of her children died. After her husband's death, she never left the old home, but kept a horse which she drove to town and to church, unaided, even to the last Sabbath before her death. She died May 13th. 1900, after a brief illness. The following extract from a local paper testifies the esteem in which she was held: "In the quiet afternoon of an ideal May day, the friends of Mrs. Elizabeth P. Blish gathered at the old homestead, south of the city, Tuesday, and paid a last sad tribute to her noble life. In the large company, which filled the rooms of the hallowed old home, and gathered on the lawn, were many whose hair was streaked with gray and whose forms were bent with years. They were the remnant of the sturdy pioneers, who conquered the prairies of Illinois in former days. They came to drop a tear of love and bow at the bier of one who has seen the seasons come and go for many, many years. Mrs. Blish was one of the last of the early settlers who assisted in the work of upbuilding whatever of worth has been established here. She was quiet and refined in her bearing, but quick of memory and ready of speech and those who knew her well, heard many a tale of the old pioneer times, intermingled with her delicate sense of humor. Her death is the passing of a landmark, revered, respected and loved most by those who knew her best."

James Knox was educated at Hamilton College, New York, and Yale College, Conn., and fitted himself for the law. After coming West he engaged in general merchandising at Knoxville, Illinois, doing what little law business that came to him. It was in connection with some land transaction for eastern parties, that he first became acquainted with the family of Col. Blish. He was an extensive land dealer and became very wealthy by this means. At his death he left lands valued at half a million dollars, the bulk of which he devised to trustees for the purpose of founding an Agricultural College at Knoxville, Illinois, upon condition that responsible citizens of Knox county should subscribe $250,000.00 for the same purpose, within one year after his death. In the event of their failure to subscribe the amount, the fund was given to Hamilton and Yale colleges. The subscription was made, but the two colleges named, questioned the validity of the subscription and took the matter into the United States courts, and succeeded in defeating the devise for the Agricultural college. James Knox twice represented his district in Congress, and was a very able and scholarly man. In the latter part of his life he spent much of his time in Europe, mostly in Germany. Alonzo Howard⁷ Blish acquired a good common school education, and for several years before he was of age, he taught school during the winter months, and worked on the farm in the summer. After he became of age, he and his brother Aaron, bought a place called "Little York", in the town of Walton, in Delaware county, about 150 acres of timber, where they spent two years in clearing and improving it. They then sold out and returned to Stamford and the following winter they both engaged in peddling printed oilcloths, which had just come into use as table and furniture covers, and for a time had a great sale, in the new States of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. They continued in this business for two years, traveling in wagons through the then sparsely settled country of those states, and meeting with many exciting adventures. Soon after their return to New York state Alonzo married and he and his brother Aaron, went to the thriving town of Racine, Wisconsin, and engaged in hotel keeping, remaining something over two years, when they returned to New York, where Alonzo's wife died. He then went to Honesdale, Penn., under an agreement with a man named Rexford, to build and have in operation, within two years, a paper mill. He was to receive as compensation a considerable tract of land on the river, with a water privilege. The death of his father delayed the work but he had the mill in operation within the specified time. Rexford, however, refused to perform his part of the contract, on some pretext, but mainly for the reason that a railroad had been built and other improvements made which rendered the land much more valuable than when the agreement was made. Litigation followed which ended in Rexford having to pay for all of the improvements. This Rexford was an uncle of Alonzo Blish's second wife. After this he and his wife went to Central America, where he was superintendent for the Panama Railroad Co. His health failing here, he returned to New York and was for some years engaged in various railroad works, until about 1860, when he removed to Arkadelphia, Arkansas, with his wife and two boys, and died there in 1883 or 1884.

Daniel B. McLaury was raised and schooled in New York State, and in 1854 settled in New Brunswick, N. J., and went extensively into market gardening and small fruits. Some idea of the extent of his business may be gathered from the fact, that as high as 248 bushels of strawberries have been picked in one day. In 1873-74 small fruits began to come from the south, northern fruit growers having seen the possibilities of that field, and this combined with a financial crisis, seriously injured the fruit business in the northern states. Mr. McLaury retired from the fruit business some years ago, devoting himself to real estate and insurance.

Adaline Elizabeth⁸ (Talcott) Emerson, is a graduate of Rutger's College, New York City, class of 1856. She is a descendent of a long line of patriots and pioneers, the earliest of whom landed at Plymouth from the Mayflower in 1620. Another line founded the city of Hartford and the State of Connecticut, while still others are identified with the Massachusetts and Connecticut colonies. By reason of her culture and executive ability, she has been repeatedly called to occupy positions of importance, in philanthropic, patriotic and social organizations, not only in Rockford, but in the State and National organizations, as delegate or representative, in Europe as well as America.

Her printed volumes, "Love Bound and Other Poems," and the Memorial of her son Ralph, attracted much attention and are highly spoken of.

In club life, Mrs. Emerson is a member of the American Author's League, and is officially connected with the State Federation of Clubs. She has also for many years been a member of "The Fortnightly" of Chicago, a purely literary club, and the "Monday Club" of Rockford, and is Second Vice-President of the Rutger's College Alumnae Association, of New York. In philanthropic work her activity is unlimited. She was one of the leading spirits in establishing a hospital in Rockford, giving largely both time and means, and has been one of the Board of Directors ever since it was incorporated, in 1883. She is also Vice-President of the "Woman's Board of the Interior," and Vice-President of the "Woman's Home Missionary Union", the latter two of Chicago, most of which offices have been held for many years. The latest public recognition of Mrs. Emerson's executive ability was during the Spanish-American war when she was appointed, without previous consultation, by the Governor of Illinois, as Vice-President for the Sixth Supreme Judicial District, to organize an Army and Navy League, for the relief of the sick or wounded at the front, and their families at home. Mrs. Emerson was the only woman thus honored, and through her enthusiasm and push, the Winnebago County League was the first one organized in the state.

Ralph Emerson, Sr., has been for many years identified with the manufacturing and business interests of Rockford, and the leading spirit in the firm, and later company, known as "Emerson, Talcott & Co.," which has already been noted in connection with to Hon. Wait Talcott. (p. 201).

William Ariel⁸ Talcott, though born in Rockton, spent the greater part of his life in Rockford, where, from the time he reached manhood until his death, he was intimately associated with the business interests of the city, and also active in all public enterprises. He was chosen Trustee of Rockford College in 1883, and was President of the Board of Trustees, from 1894 until the time of his death. In 1888 he became a member of the Executive Committee and for the following twelve years only those associated closely with him can form an estimate of the lavish personal care and constant attention which he bestowed upon the business of the college. His home was the center of hospitality for the faculty, students and friends of the college, and the presence of Mr. Talcott and his wife, added charm to all the social occasions of the year. Mr. Talcott had, in a peculiar degree, the faculty of making friends, and there is no more distinctive mark of the service he rendered the college, than the long list of friends and donors he gained for it. His own benefactions were most generous. During his Presidency he exercised all the resources at his command in elevating the school to the independent rank and character of an institution dedicated to the higher education of women. His business life has already been mentioned in connection with the account of his father, Hon. Wait Talcott. In every walk of life the simplicity and sincerity of Mr. Talcott's character have challenged the respect and admiration of all who have had the pleasure of knowing him. Without doubt his life was shortened by burns which he received several years ago, in a heroic endeavor to save Miss Alice Tobey, who was burned to death at a Rockford College reception. He never fully recovered from the shock and in June, 1900, went abroad with his wife, hoping to gain strength by travel. He died 19 Dec. 1900, in Jerusalem, Palestine.

Fanny Caroline (Jones) Talcott has occupied a prominent position in the social and literary circles of Rockford. She was State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, but resigned the position soon after the death of her husband.

They have no children.

Mary Carter⁸ (Talcott) Pettibone early manifested unusual musical talent and became a very expert pianist. In Chicago she has been active in musical and club life. She is a prominent member of the West End club, and some seven years ago organized the West End Club Chorus, which under her leadership, has been a great success. She has guided the chorus through all styles of music from simple ballads to intricate musical dramas. "The Lady of Shalott" was produced a few months since and was such a success that it was repeated. The chorus has shown its appreciation of her efforts by presenting her with a beautiful baton of ivory, silver and ebony. The chorus consists of twenty-six members of the club and their special badge is a sixteenth note, done in silver and enamel.

Philo Foster Pettibone graduated from Beloit College in 1862, since which time he has been in business in Chicago, being the senior member of the stationery house of P. F. Pettibone & Co. He is a man of fine literary attainments and was at one time on the Chicago Board of Education.

James K. Blish

James Knox^o Blish spent his boyhood on his father's farm in Wethersfield, attending the local schools. He was one year in the Ann Arbor, Mich. High School, and in 1862 entered the University of Michigan, graduating in 1866 with the degree of B. A., and in 1876 received the degree of M. A. from the same institution. After leaving college, having a natural aptitude for theatricals, he spent one year, at Leavenworth, Kansas, in the opera house, which was sufficient to convince him that it was not the life which he wished to follow, and he returned to Wethersfield, was married and engaged in farming for two years. He then went to Council Bluffs, Iowa, and engaged in the blank book and stationery business for two years, and later followed the same business in Chicago, until after the great fire of 1871, when he returned to Kewanee, Ill., and entered the office of Judge John H. Howe, and began the study of law. Judge Howe, a year later, was appointed by President Grant as Chief Justice of the Territory of Wyoming and left Kewanee, and Mr. Blish's studies were completed with Hon. Levi North, a former law partner of Judge Howe's. While pursuing his law course he was elected Justice of the Peace and was the youngest man who ever filled the position in Kewanee. In 1873, he was admitted to practice law, on examination before the Judges of the Supreme Court of Illinois, at Springfield, among whom was the venerable Sidney Breese. He at once opened a law office in Kewanee, and has since followed that profession. He has taken an active interest in the institutions of his city, having been one of the organizers, and for ten years one of the directors of the Kewanee Public Library, Supervisor for four years, and one of the Building Committee which supervised the erection of the Henry County Court House; member of the Board of Education of Kewanee for eighteen years; one of the organizers and for twelve years President of the Kewanee Fair Association; organizer of the Kewanee Building & Loan Association, which has had twenty-two years successful existence; member of the City Council, and other local offices. He was for two years Vice-President of the First National Bank of Kewanee, and has been for ten years last past its President. In 1902 he was elected as Minority Representative to the General Assembly of Illinois, for the Thirty-seventh District, composed of Bureau, Henry and Stark counties.

Amy Mason (Rhodes) Blish was brought to Illinois by her parents, when an infant. Her father located on a farm at Bunker Hill, south of Buda, Illinois. Here she attended the local schools, until failing health compelled her father to quit farming and the family removed to Buda. She finished her education at Providence, Rhode Island, and at once began teaching, which she followed for over ten years, during most of which time she was first assistant in the High schools of Buda, Sheffield and Cambridge, Illinois. Since her marriage she has been an active participant in the social, charitable and literary life of Kewanee. She is a member of the Ladies' Reading Club, which has just celebrated its tenth anniversary; was the organizer and for several years Regent of the Kewanee Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution; and for fifteen years has been an officer and one of the managers of the Dorcas society, an organization to aid the sick, destitute and worthy poor, which is supported by voluntary contributions from charitable citizens of the city, and which has been of great benefit to the community.

Matthew Bonar⁸ Blish attended the local schools of Wethersfield and Kewanee, and spent one year at the University of Mich. After his marriage he began farming which continued to be his business until a couple of years after the death of his father, in 1890. In company with his father, (under the firm name of C. C. Blish & Son) he built up one of the finest herds of Short-horn cattle in the West. After the death of the senior member of the firm, Mr. Blish, never of strong physique, felt that the constant care necessary to maintain the herd was telling upon him and dispersed it at a public sale, and the high prices realized were an unmistakable index of the quality of the animals. For a few years thereafter he was not in any active business, but the last two years he has been interested with his son, Charles B. Blish, in the Vienna Bakery in Kewanee. For the last five years his winters have been spent in Mobile, Alabama, and Pensacola, Florida, to avoid the rigors of the northern climate. He is officially connected with the Kewanee Fair Association and is a prominent member of the Masonic order.

 1334. CHARLES VAN NOSTRAND,⁹ b. 30 Jany. 1894

Charles Addison⁸ Blish completed his studies at the seminary in Stamford, N. Y., and soon afterward entered the law office of Judge Maynard, Ex-First Assistant Secretary of State under President Grover Cleveland. In 1875 he removed to Chicago, Ill., and was admitted to the practice of the law. This, however, he did not long follow. Having decided musical tastes and being gifted with a fine baritone voice, which he had cultivated, he entered this field, and for many years managed concert and operatic companies, covering not only the United States, but Canada and Mexico, as well. He was not manager alone, but took an active position with the different companies in their performances, and as a baritone soloist stood very high. A severe throat difficulty made it necessary for him to quit singing and for a time he was manager of the Mendelsohn Quintette Club, at that time the leading musical organization of its kind in the country. In 1891, he quit music, as an occupation, and for several years, in connection with William C. Leavitt, under the name of Blish & Leavitt, was manager of the San Francisco office of the Union Mutual Life Insurance company, of Portland, Maine. At the present time he is a traveling salesman for a wholesale coffee and tea house and resides at Elgin, Ill. Rest has restored his voice to nearly its pristine quality, and he is yet frequently called upon as a soloist on various occasions. His interest in music is unabated, and as an entertainer and story-teller he has few equals. He is deservedly popular wherever he is known.

Anna Grace (Van Nostrand) Blish is descended from a long line, dating from 1634, in this country. The VanNostrands have been noted for their love of personal and religious freedom. Some of them were in the Revolutionary army. The family motto is "I am a Van of a Van", which is taken from the following curious couplet:

"On every rugged feature, ancestral glories shine,
We claim a common kinship, with all that is good and fine;
I'm a Van of a Van of a son of a Van,
Of a Van of a Van of a Van of a Van of a Van."

The VanNostrand line is traced as far back as the army of William the Conqueror, and has a most interesting history.

FULLER.

EDWARD FULLER,¹ the twenty-first signer of the Mayflower Compact, with his wife, Ann, and his son Samuel, who at that time must have been about five or six years of age, came in the Mayflower, in 1620. Both Edward Fuller and his wife died, according to Gov. Bradford, "soon after they came on shore", and the child Samuel was taken in charge by his uncle, Dr. Samuel Fuller, by whom he was reared. Very little is known concerning Edward Fuller or his wife. They are known to have had two

3.+SAMUEL,² b. in England.

The Mayflower Compact is thus spoken of and given by Gov. Bradford:

THE REMAINDER OF AN^o: 1620.

"I shal a litle returne backe, and begin with a combination made by them before they came ashore; being y^e first foundation of their governmente in this place. Occasioned partly by y^e discontented, and mutinous speeches that some of the strangers amongst them, had let fall from them in y^e ship; That when they came ashore they would use their owne libertie; for none had power to comand them, the patente they had being for Virginia, and not for Newengland, which belonged to another government with which y^e Virginia Company had nothing to doe. And partly that shuch an Acte by them done (this their condition considered) might be as firme as any patent; and in some respects more sure.

"The forme was as followeth:

"In y^e name of God Amen. We whose names are underwritten, the loyall subjects of our dread soveraigne lord King James, by y^e grace of God, of Great Britaine, Franc, & Ireland king, defender of y^e faith, &c.

"Haveing undertaken, for y^e glorie of God, and advancemente of y^e christian faith and honour of our king & countrie, a voyage to plant y^e Northerne parts of Virginia. Doe by these presents solemnly & mutuallly in y^e presence of God, and of one another; covenant, & combine our selves together into a civill body politick; for our better ordering, & preservation & furtherance of y^e ends aforesaid; and by vertue hearof to enacte, constitute, and frame shuch just & equall lawes, ordinances, Acts, constitutions, & offices from time to time, as shall be thought most meete & convenient for y^e generall good, of y^e Colonie: unto which we promise all due submission and obedience. In witnes wherof we have hereunder subscribed our names at Cape-Codd y^e 11. of November, in y^e year of y^e raigne of our soveraigne lord king James of England, france, & Ireland y^e eighteenth, and of Scotland y^e fiftie fourth. An^o Dom. 1620."

Forty-one names are signed to the compact of which Edward Fuller is the twenty-first.

2. Dr MATTHEW FULLER.

MATTHEW,² s. of Edward¹ and Ann Fuller, remained in England, when his parents, with his brother Samuel came over, in 1620. From the ages of his children he must have been married in England. He is said to have had two wives, Hannah. . . . and Frances. . . .

7. JOHN,³ b. in Plymouth. He was a physician of some note and d. in 1691.
- 8.+ANNE,³ b. in Plymouth.

Matthew² Fuller was one of the prominent men of the old Colony. He remained in England until about 1740. It is not known whether he studied medicine in the old country or after he came over, but he must have been about thirty years of age at that time. By reason of the death of his parents, both he and his brother Samuel², were reckoned "among the first born of the Colony", and assigned lands, which would have belonged to their father. In 1642 he had ten acres of land assigned him near Thurston Clark's, in Plymouth.

In 1643 a "military discipline" was established by the Colony Court, embracing the towns of Plymouth, Duxbury and Marshfield. Myles Standish was the Captain and Matthew Fuller one of the Sergeants, which was an office of distinction at that time, as none but freemen of "honest and good report" could be admitted to the company. The strictest discipline was maintained. No conversation was permitted when the company was on parade, and for absence, without sufficient excuse, they were fined, and if not paid, expulsion followed. The equipment required was, a musket, a sword, a rest and a bandillier. All officers were to be ever after known by their titles, and each member paid six pence per quarter for the use of the company. This military discipline was in addition to the regular militia, and was organized on the same plan as the "ancient and honorable artillery of Boston," which is still kept up.

He was the first physician in Barnstable. The exact date of his removal there is uncertain. The court approved his election as Lieutenant of the militia company in Barnstable, 3 Sept. 1652. In 1653, he was deputy from Barnstable to the Colony Court.

1653. 6. Apr., "Leift. Fuller, Sergiant Johnson and John Allen, haue taken the oath of Fidelitie to the Gouernment this Court."

He was propounded for a freeman 3 June, 1652, and admitted as a freeman, 7 June, 1653, "and sworne."

The Court in Decr. 1652, directed the several towns to send deputies to meet the magistrates, 1 Apr. 1653, "to treat and conclude on such military affairs as, through God's blessing, may probably tend to our present and future safety", in consequence of the variances between England and Holland. Barnstable sent Lieut. Fuller and Sergt. Thomas Hinckley. They met, and in May, 1653, the court ordered sixty men to be raised, agreeably to a requisition of the council of war.

1653-4. 7 Mar. * * * "Wee p^rsent Henry Cole of Barnstable, for pilfering away of the money of Leiftenant Mathew Fuller of Barnstable".

1654. 20 June. He was appointed Lieut. under Capt. Myles Standish, of a company of fifty men, the quota of Plymouth Colony, in a proposed expedition against the Dutch at Manhattoes, now New York. The men were ordered to meet at Sandwich, June 29th. to embark from Manomett in the bark "Adventer", belonging to Capt. Samuel Mayo, of Barnstable, and join the forces of the other colonies at an appointed place. News of the conclusion of peace between England and Holland was received June 23rd. and the expedition was stopped. The Plymouth Record says:—"The counsell of warr mett att Plymouth the 20th. of June, 1654, att which meeting warrants were issued out in the name of his highnes the Lord Protector of England, Ireland and Scotland, for the pressing of the number of fifty men, to bee taken cut of the severall townes within this jurisdiction, to goe forth with Major Robert Sedgwicke and Captain John Leverett, in the intended expedition against the Duch att Manhattoes. * * * This company, well provided for, are to goe forth vnder the comaund of Captaine Myles Standish, whoe is ordered to bee their comaunder in chiefe, and Leiftenant Mathew Fuller was ordered to goe forth with him as leiftenantt of this expedition. * * *" 1658. 13 Feby. He was on the coroner's jury at the inquest held on the body of the child of Nicholas Davis, two years old, found drowned.

1658. 2 Oct. He was elected one of the "Councell of Warr", and in 1671, was its chairman, and one of the magistrates of the Colony, and the same year was Lieut. of forces to be sent against the Saconet Indians.

1661. 4 June. "Whereas at the court held att Plymouth on March fift, 1660, libertie was giuen vnto Mr. John Howland, Anthony Annable, Isake Robinson, Capt. Nathaniel Thomas, Samuel Fuller, Abraham Peirse and Peter Blossom to purchase lands at Saconeset and places adjacent, on condition that they should take in sundry others with them to haue an equall interest in such lands and to beare equall charges with them, viz: Mr. Samuel Hinckley, leiftenant Mathew Fuller, John Cooper, Henry Cobb, John Jenkins, of Barnstable, and Samuel Fuller, William Nelson; John Morton and Thomas Burman, of Plymouth, this court doth establish and further confirm that which the court in March did in the premises."

1670. Capt. Matth. Fuller's name appears on a list of Inhabitants of Barnstable, with titles.

1673. 17 Dec. He was appointed Surgeon General of the Colony troops, and also of Massachusetts, if that Colony approved.

1675, 28 June. Capt. Fuller was at Swanzev with troops, in the war against King Philip. The Plymouth forces passed over to Pocasset, found a body of Indians and had a skirmish with them. Capt. Fuller was in command and after hard fighting drew off, after inflicting severe losses on the enemy. The Indians retreated to Pocasset swamps and were held at bay until the return of the Massachusetts troops. Major Cudworth and Capt. Fuller were at Dartmouth with 112 men; others were stationed around the swamps, where they had Philip and his men entrapped. On July 5th. it was determined to march all Massachusetts troops into the Narragansett country. Major Cudworth and Capt. Matthew Fuller had pursued Philip into Pocasset.

In 1675, Dr. Fuller was allowed 4 Shillings a day for his services as Surgeon General and for "other good services performed in behalf of his country", he having acted as Captain of a company in addition to his surgical duties. In the drawing of lands awarded to the soldiers in King Philip's war, in Narragansett Township, (now Gorham, Me.) Dr. Matthew Fuller, of Barnstable, drew lot 69.

Dr. Matthew Fuller was a man of liberal opinions and very outspoken for the day in which he lived, which trait frequently got him into trouble with the authorities, but for which he was seldom punished, an apology usually condoning the offense. His temper was rash, but his personal bravery was never questioned. In the Quaker controversy he took a noble stand in favor of religious toleration. At the October Court, 1658, he was presented by the grand inquest for saying that the new law for supporting the clergy by a compulsory tax was "a wicked and devilish law, and the devil sat at the stern when it was enacted". He did not deny saying it, and was fined 50 shillings. It is a singular coincidence, that at the same court at which he was presented and fined for disrespect to the court, that he was made one of the Council of War. They evidently knew him to be honorable and brave, notwithstanding his hot temper and indiscreet utterances.

In private life and in his business relations he was inclined to be dictatorial and litigious. His weaknesses seem to have been so well understood that they were overlooked, in view of the many good services he had rendered for his country and community.

The farms of Matthew Fuller and his brother Samuel,² were on Scorton Neck, at the north-west angle of the town. Soon after the settlement the town bought of Secunke, an Indian, Scorton Neck, and the arable land at the west end was assigned to the Fullers. The western end of the Neck was bought by the town of Sandwich, and a dispute as to the boundary arose, which was not settled until after Dr. Fuller's death, which occurred in 1678.

His will is dated 20 July, 1678, and was proven 30 Oct. following. He mentions his wife Frances; his grand-son Shubael, son of Ralph Jones; his son John, to whom he bequeathed one-half of his real estate; his grand-children Thomas, Jabez, Timothy, Matthias and Samuel, children of his eldest son Samuel,³ to whom he bequeathed the other half of his estate; and Bethia, wife of John Fuller. To daughter Mary, wife of Ralph Jones, he gave £10; to daughter Anne Fuller, "now wife of Samuel Fuller", £10; to daughter Elizabeth, wife of Moses Rowley, £10. He also names Sarah Rowley, daughter of Elizabeth; Jedediah Jones, son of Ralph; Mary Fuller, late wife of his son Samuel; Robert Marshall, the Scotchman, and Jasper Taylor. His wife Frances is made executrix. The witnesses to the will were Lieut. Joseph Lothrop and John Hawes. His estate was appraised at £667-04-06, a large estate for those times. Among the items in the inventory are "Pearls, precious stones and Diamonds, £200".*

Some question has been raised at different times as to the kinship of Matthew and Samuel Fuller. The proof is not strong, but it is convincing. They lived together at a remote corner of the town. Lands were assigned to both Samuel and Matthew Fuller as "first-born" of the Colony, and there is nothing to show any right to Matthew Fuller, unless he was a son of Edward¹ of the Mayflower; again Matthew and Samuel Fuller lived near together, at a remote corner of the town, which would indicate some bond of consanguinity, especially viewing the fact that the men were very unlike in habits and disposition; further, in the settlement of the boundary line question, after the death of Dr. Matthew Fuller, his son, Dr. John³ Fuller, calls Samuel Fuller,² Sr. his uncle. No record is known to exist as to the dates or places of birth of the children of Matthew Fuller. Mrs. Haxtun, in her work on the Signers of the Mayflower Compact, and Freeman in the History of Cape Cod, say that he had two wives. Otis, in his Barnstable Families, regards this as uncertain.

*In connection with this box of jewels, there is a strange story. Soon after Matthew Fuller's death it was missing. Robert Marshall, the Scotch servant was charged with having stolen it, merely on suspicion. The charge so affected him that he took no food and finally died from grief and starvation. He died in the winter and was buried on a declivity of Scorton Hill. For two centuries the plow has not desecrated his grave, and a few years ago Capt. Oliver Chase placed two stones at his grave, one at the head and one at the foot. Many stories were told of the appearance of the Scotchman's ghost, and timorous people dare not pass the place after night-fall.

Samuel² Fuller was reared by his uncle Dr. Samuel Fuller, of Plymouth, the first physician of the Colony. He had three shares in the division of the lands in 1624, in right of his father and mother. He was executor of his uncle's will in 1633, and was made a freeman of the Colony in 1634. He removed to Scituate prior to his marriage, and united with the church there, 7 Nov. 1636, by letter from Plymouth. He built, in 1636, the fifteenth house in Scituate, on Greenfield, the first lot abutting on Kent street. He had 20 acres of land on the east of Bellhouse Neck, in Scituate. Deane, in his history, calls him "a man from Kent", whence many of the first settlers in Barnstable came.

He was one of the "associates", who obtained a grant in Oct. 1639, for a settlement at Mattakeese, between Yarmouth and Sandwich. This settlement was commenced chiefly by people from Scituate, and became eventually the town of Barnstable.

Samuel Fuller, as it appears from the church records, was in Barnstable as early as 1641, but there is no proof that he was an inhabitant, until after the first of January, 1644, though his name is in the list of families that came with Rev. John Lothrop in 1639. He and his brother, Matthew, owned lands at Scorton or Sandy Neck, or as much as lay within the town of Barnstable. Samuel Fuller also bought of his brother Matthew a meadow that was Major John Freeman's, and owned land on Scorton Hill. He lived in the north-west angle of the town, and was very little engaged in public matters. He was constable in Scituate in 1641, and his name occasionally appears as a juryman. He was on the committee to settle difficulties that arose with the Indians, and in 1640 was one of the 58 "purchasers", as that company was called, who bought out the rights of the London merchants, called the "adventurers".

He was one of those to whom liberty was given in 1660, to purchase lands at Saconeaset, or Succoneset, where he was assigned eight acres in 1661. He was the only one of the Mayflower passengers, who settled in Barnstable. In 1679, there were only 12 of the Mayflower passengers living, of which he was one. He d. 31 Oct. 1683, at Barnstable. His will, dated 29 Oct. 1683, names oldest son, Samuel, son John, daughters, Elizabeth Taylor, Hannah Bonham, Mary Williams and Sarah Crow. His wife, not being named, had probably died prior to his making the will.

Johu fuller made oath to the truth of this Inventory this 25 day of february, 1683-84 before Thomas Hinckley Gov^r John Thacher Assistant Samuel² Fuller was of an entirely different disposition from his brother Matthew, being eminently pious and retired in his habits. He was a good citizen and neighbor, a sincere christian, and made none of the mistakes which got his more impetuous brother into trouble at times. His record, while not brilliant, is spotless.

10. SAMUEL³ FULLER.

SAMUEL,³ s. of Samuel² and Jane (Lothrop) Fuller, was bap. 11 Feby. 1637-8. He m., Anne, dtr. of Dr. Matthew Fuller, and his cousin.

 20. JOSEPH,⁴ b. m. Thankful Blossom.
 21. BENJAMIN,⁴ b.
 22. DESIRE,⁴ b.
 23. SARAH,⁴ b.

There is no record of the family of Samuel Fuller in Barnstable. An inventory of his estate was taken at his house in Barnstable, 29 Dec. 1691. It would appear that he had then been dead some time, and that his widow had recently died, and her estate was settled by mutual agreement on the 30th. day of the same month. All of the heirs sign by mark, indicating that they had received no schooling. It is presumed that they were then all of legal age, and their names occur in the order above set forth.

18. MATTHEW⁴ FULLER.

MATTHEW,⁴ s. of Samuel³ and Anne (Fuller) Fuller, m. 25 Feby. 1692-3, Patience Young, probably dtr. of George Young, of Scituate, Mass.

 28. DAVID,^o b. Feby. 1706-7.
 29. YOUNG,^o b. 1708.
 30. CORNELIUS,^o b. 1710.

Very little is shown of this family in the Barnstable records, and they probably removed soon after 1710.

24. ANNE^o (FULLER) BLISH.

ANNE,^o dtr. of Matthew^o and Patience (Young) Fuller, was b. . . . Nov. 1693, in Barnstable, Mass. She m. 17 Oct. 1717, Tristram, s. of Joseph and Hannah (Hull) Blish. He was b. . . . Apr. 1694, at W. Barnstable, Mass.

 49. DAVID^o BLISH, b. 1732.
 50. MARY^o BLISH, b. 8 Mar. 1736.

Otis has Anne Fuller married to Reuben^o Blish, but in this he is contradicted by the Barnstable records and by Freeman's History of Cape Cod. Reuben^o Blish, the brother of Tristram, m. 25 Jany. 1717, Elizabeth Bodfish, and the next Reuben^o was not born until 1721. (See ante p. 35).

Among the treasured relics at Plymouth, is the Fuller cradle, which was brought over in the Mayflower. It is doubtless genuine or it never would have been placed in the collection. None of these relics are ever permitted to be removed. No inducements from loan exhibits or expositions of any kind, no matter what the object may be, have ever been able to secure any of them. Another relic, which it is claimed belongs to the Fuller line, is a carved oaken chest, which was recently in the possession of Mrs.

Maria L. Reid, wife of Rev. Louis H. Reid, of Hartford, Conn.

In tracing the Fuller lines above given, the compiler has only endeavored to connect them with his own family. Those desiring further information, are referred to authorities given below, and to the published genealogies of the family.

REV. JOSEPH HULL.

Little is known of the early history of Joseph Hull. The following record was found in 1870, in the Public Record Office in London, and first published in the N. E. Gen. Register.

WAYMOUTH, ye 20th of March, 1635. Bound for New England.

While the first of the record has the name Hall, the names of the last two children are given as Hull. That it is the family of the Rev. Joseph Hull can hardly be doubted, when all of the circumstances are considered: 1. That Joseph Hull was a minister; 2. that the name of his wife was Agnes; 3. that his daughter Joanna (Joane) m. John Bursley; 4. that his daughter Elizabeth m. John Heard; 5. that he had a son Tristram, whose history is well established; all of which correspond with the names given in the list as Hall; 6. a search of records and indexes fails to show any Joseph Hall arriving in this country at or near the time given; 7. 5 May, 1635, is given as the date when Joseph Hull, and 21 other families came over and settled at Wessaguscus, later Weymouth, Mass., which would be about the time they should have arrived, after shipping March 20. same year.

Judging by the shipping record Mr. Hull must have been twice married; the age of his wife Agnes is there given as twenty-five, and she probably was not the mother of more than the two youngest children who came in the ship, aged five and three years respectively.

The Colony Court made a grant, 4 June, 1639, "to Mr. Joseph Hull and Thomas Dimoc, with their associates, to erect a plantation or town at or about a place called by the Indians Mat-tacheese". This was the beginning of the town of Barnstable. (Freeman, 1-139). On the 11th. of October, 1639, Rev. John Lothrop and many of his congregation came from Scituate and located here.

The first day of Thanksgiving is thus chronicled by Mr. Lothrop: "Decemb. 11. 1639, att Mr. Hull's house, for God's exceeding mercye in bringing us hither Safely, keeping us healthy & well in o^r weake beginnings & in o^r church estate. The day being very cold, o^r praises to God in publike being ended, wee divided into three companies to feast together, some att Mr. Hull's, some att Mr. Maio's and some att Brother Lumbard's Senior."

(N. E. Gen. Regr. X. 39. Freeman, 2-246).

The first deputies to the court at Plymouth, from Barnstable, were Mr. Joseph Hull and Mr. Thomas Dimoc, who took their seats the first Thursday in December, 1639. (Freeman, 2-148.)

Of the early history of Joseph Hull very little is known. In Mather's Magnalia his name is placed in his "first classis", that is "such as were in the actual exercise of their ministry, when they left England." It is known that Mr. Hull first preached at Weymouth, and his farewell discourse there was given in May, 1639, the same month he came to Barnstable, Elder Thomas Dimmock having preceded him in March of the same year. At that time the Indians on the Cape numbered over five hundred. They were Pokonokets and acknowledged the supremacy of Massasoit, as their great sachem. They were divided into numerous tribes, each of which was ruled by its own sagamore. Iyannough, the sachem of the Mattakeset Indians, had been dead for some fifteen years, and his territory was divided among many claimants. He had no child old enough to succeed him. Yanno, the sachem from whom Tristram Hull bought lands for the town, in 1664, probably claimed through him. The sachem at Hyannis was called "John Hianna." Paupmunnucks was the sachem of the Massapee or Marshpee tribe, in the southwest part of the town, and Secuncke was sachem of the Scorton tribe, at west Barnstable. Sandwich had been settled two years and Yarmouth less than one, when Mr. Hull came to Barnstable. There were in the plantation about fifteen families, settled in two villages, one near Meeting House Hill and the other near Coggin's pond. Mr. Hull and Mr. Dimmock laid out the lands between the two villages, into lots, and those who came with Mr. Hull settled thereon. Mr. Hull's house was on the road opposite the ancient burial ground. Though unquestionably a minister of the gospel, his name does not appear upon the church records either as pastor or teacher. On April 15th, 1640, he assisted Rev. John Lothrop and Mr. Cobb at the ordination of the Rev. John Mayo as teacher elder of the church. (N. E. Gen. Regr. X, p. 37. Otis' Barnstable Families.)

Precisely what was Mr. Hull's ecclesiastical position seems uncertain. According to Mr. Lothrop's diary he was excommunicated. "Mr. Hull excommunicated for his willfull breake-ing of communion w^t us & joyning himsef a member w^t a companie at Yarmouth to be their Pastour, contrarie to y^e advise and Counsell of o^r Church, May 1. 1641". (N. E. Gen. Regr. X p. 41). A warrant was issued by the Court at Plymouth, 7 Mar. 1642-3, as follows: "It is ordered that a warrant shalbe directed to the Constable of Yarmouth to app^rhend Mr. Joseph Hull, (if he do either exercise the ministry amongst them or administer seales), to bring him before the next magistrate to fynd sufficient sureties for his apparance the next Geñall court, to answare his doings bein an excommunicant." (Plym. Col. Rec. II. p. 53. Freeman, 1-172.) This warrant was never served, and Mr. Hull was received back into the church, as shown by the following entry of Mr. Lothrop:—"Mr. Hull in the acknowledgeing his sinn & renewing his covenant was received again into fellowship with us, Aug. 10, 1643." (N. E. Gen. Regr. X p. 41.) His wife seems to have been subjected to the same discipline,—“Our Sister Hull renewed her covenant with us, renouneing her joyning with them at Yarmouth, confessing her evil in soe doeing w^t sorrow, Mar. 11. 1642.” (N. E. Gen. Regr. X p. 39.)

It is difficult to understand the stand taken by Rev. John Lothrop and others against Mr. Hull, who seems to have not only been an energetic man, but also a sincere Christian. He desisted from preaching at Yarmouth after the court had forbidden him, and in the spring of 1643, removed to Dover. The odium attached to the prosecution seems to have followed him there, as Gov. Winthrop says under date of May 10, 1643, when articles of confederation were adopted by the Colonies, "Those of Sir Ferdinando Gorge his province beyond Pascataquack, were not received or called into the confederation, because they ran adiferent from us both in their ministry and civil administration; for they had lately made Acomenticus, (Dover), a poor village, a corporation, and had made a taylor their mayor, and had entertained one Hull, an excommunicated person and very contentious, their minister." This illustrates the old saying of giving a dog a bad name and every one will kick at him. He had been received into full fellowship at Barnstable, before going to Dover. Mr. John Bursley, who had married his daughter, Joanna, traded with the eastern Indians at Dover, and the removal of Mr. Hull there was likely induced by him. Cotton Mather speaks of him as "a reverend minister." Just how long he remained at Dover is uncertain. Gov. Winthrop mentions him as minister at Dover in 1646, and Bishop mentions him as being minister at Dover or Oyster River, which were near together. Bishop says that Mary Tompkins and Alice Ambrose, on the Sabbath, attended Mr. Hull's place of worship, and both standing up "before the old man, he began to be troubled; and having spoken against woman's preaching, he was confounded, and knew not well what to say, whereupon Mary standing up declared the truth to the people." (Bishop's Quaker Persecutions.) She was put down and carried out of the house, and Bishop says, that in the melee "the Priest pinched her arm." That this was anything serious, may be doubted. No doubt that Mr. Hull, seeing his meeting invaded by Quakers, who insisted on speaking, would naturally resent such interference. In the afternoon the Quakers held a separate meeting, which was not molested. A little time after this he removed to the Isles of Shoals, and preached in a meeting house on Hog Island, which had been built in 1641. From a mention in Neal's History of New England, it appears that he went there prior to 1659. He died 19 Nov. 1665, which would make him about sixty-nine or seventy years old, if the shipping record states his age correctly. Mr. Otis has diligently collected all references to Mr. Hull, and concludes that the opinion expressed by Gov. Winthrop is erroneous and misleading. (Otis' Barnstable Families.)

The salary paid Mr. Hull was inadequate for the support of his large family, and he engaged in agriculture, especially the raising of cattle and horses for market. It appears that he took care of cattle sent out from England, for a portion of the increase, which was a common practice at that time. Without doubt the extensive salt meadows and greater facilities for raising cattle was the strongest inducement for people to remove to Barnstable, or Mattakeset, as it was then called. After the coming of Mr. John Lothrop and his congregation, they assumed control of municipal affairs, and as Mr. Dimmock and others of the first comers, preferred the preaching of Mr. Lothrop, Mr. Hull was left with a small follownig. He was blamed for selling land to Samuel Hinckley, which the town afterward took possession of, and Mr. Hinckley sued him for damages. Mr. Hull offered to settle, but Mr. Hinckley took the matter into court. The decision of the court was exactly in accord with the offer which Mr. Hull had made, that he should refund to Mr. Hinckley 20 shillings and that the town should return one half of the land. As this was the only law suit in which his name appears, it cannot be truthfully said that he was "a contentious man." (Plym. Col. Rec. II

In Yarmouth the Rev. Marmaduke Matthews, a Welchman, was the settled minister. He was witty and learned, but not distinguished for depth of thought or sound judgment. Many of his parishoners were dissatisfied with him as a minister, among whom were Dr. Thomas Starr, Mr. William Nickerson, Hugh Tilley and Joshua Barnes. Undoubtedly these and others invited Mr. Hull to Yarmouth, and in the spring of 1641, he removed and was pastor of a small congregation, composed partly of his Barnstable friends and the opponents of Mr. Matthews. For thus presuming to worship God in the manner and place they desired, the church in Barnstable, under the leadership of Rev. John Lothrop, hurled letters of excommunication against Mr. Hull and those who dared to follow him. These letters having no perceptible effect, the power of the civil magistrates was invoked, and in March, 1642-3, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Mr. Hull, for the crime of preaching at Yarmouth, "he being an excommunicated person." Rather than continue the contention, and for the sake of peace, he desisted, and was taken back into full communion by the Barnstable church. His subsequent settlement at Dover seems to have given offense to Gov. Winthrop, who was evidently prejudiced against him, which fact should greatly modify his estimate of his character. Had he been a bad man, or a "contentious man," he would hardly have been taken back by the Barnstable people, and Mr. Lothrop in his diary, nowhere speaks of him as such. He seems to have found peace in the Isles of Shoals, where he spent his last years.

Mr. Savage says of Mr. Hull, "It is necessary to follow the poor man to the Isles of Shoals, Maine, where, not long before his death, 19 Nov. 1665, he had been preaching, as his widow, Agnes, showed in her Inventory of his estate, 'The Isle owes him for his ministry, £20.'" This inventory foots up £52-5-5, of which £10 is for books.

3. TRISTRAM² HULL.

TRISTRAM, the third child of Rev. Joseph Hull, was b. in England about 1624, and came to America with his father in 1635, at the age of eleven years. From some of the early records it would appear that he was somewhat wayward in his younger days, but later settled down and became a prominent and useful citizen. The following records tell their own story.

1641. 1 Mar. Among the list of people fined, etc.

“Tristram Hull of Yarmouth, for vnclean practices.”
(Plym. Col. Rec. II. 36.)

In 1643, Tristram Hull was in Yarmouth, and is mentioned as one of the persone liable to bear arms; The town having been ordered to “Provide a place of defense against sudden assault.”
(Freeman, 1-182.)

1647. 1 June. Constables of Yarmouth: Tristrā Hull.
(Plym. Col. Rec. II. 115.)

1651. 5 June. “Ppounded to take vp their freedom:
Tristram Hull. Abra’m Blush.” (Plym Col. Rec. II. 167.)

1652. The wife of Tristram Hull, of Barnstable, “for interfering with the service of a domestic in Mr. Samuel Mayo’s family, was warned by the court to desist and carry herself better for the future.
(Freeman, 1-205.)

1654 May. Tristram Hull admitted as a freeman and Sworn.
(Plym. Col. Rec. III. 5.)

1655. Presentments of the Grand Enquest.

“Wee p^rsent John Gorum for vnseamly carriage towards Blanch Hull at vnseasonable time, being in the night.

“Wee p^rsent Blanch Hull for not crying out when shee was assaulted by John Gorum in vnseamly carriage towards her vpon her owne relation.
(Plym. Col. Rec. III. 97.)

1656-7. 3 Feby. Nicholas Upsall was accused of holding meetings and inveighing against ministers and magistrates. Tristram Hull who brought him into this Government, is according to order required to carry him away again by the first of March next.”
(Plym. Col. Rec. III. 111.)

1656-7. 5 Mar. “A warrant was directed requiring the constables of Sandwidge and Barnstable, from one to the other, to convey Nicholas Vpisall to Tristram Hull to bee recaried out of the goūment.”
(Plym. Col. Rec. III. 113.)

About 1657, the spirit of intolerance against Quakers seems to have become openly and deeply manifest. Manly complaints were made against them, and they were arrested, fined, whipped, imprisoned or sent out of the colony. It was ordered by the court, that Nicholas Upsall, "the instigator of all this mischief, be carried out of the government, by Tristum Hull, who brought him in."

Upsall was a member of a Boston church, and a very old man. Disapproving of the Quaker persecution, he had been arrested, fined £20, and banished on the charge of having "reproached the magistrates and spoken against the law." He went to Plymouth, where, alas, the laws forbade the people, under severe penalties, to receive or entertain him. In his extremity, he met Tristram Hull, and was permitted to accompany him on his return to the Cape, at least as far as Sandwich. For this Hull was haled before the court and fined and compelled to take Upsall away. However culpable he may have been under the stringent laws of the times, and whatever may have been his other delinquencies, the descendants of Tristram Hull will honor his goodness of heart and broad humanity in the stand he took.

(Freeman, 1-222.)

1658. 13 Feb. Tristram Hull was on the coroner's jury at the inquest held on the body of a two-year old child of Nicholas Davis, found drowned.

(Plym. Col. Rec. III. 146-7.)

1660-1. 5 Mar. A black horse was cryed att this court, which was the horse which was in controversy betwixt Tristram Hull and Mr. Thomas Bourn. This is referred to the court of Assistants to bee holden in May next to bee fully ended. 10 s. allowed to Tristram Hull for charges for attendance about this horse."

(Plym. Col. Rec. III. 208.)

1661. 4 June. "Tristram Hull was a constable in Barnstable.

1662-3 Mar. "Att this court Josias Hallott and Thomas Starr, for goeing into the house of John Done Juni^r att Eastham, there being nobody att Home and behauing themselues vnciuilly therein, ransacking the house for liquors and drinking thereof, and for writing and setting vp a libelouse and scandalouse paper in Verses in said house and leauing of it there, were sentenced by the court to find sureties for their behauior vntil the next General court, to bee holden att Plymouth, the first Tuesday in June next, and longer time, if the court shall see cause, and to pay a fine, each of them, the sume of fifty shillings."

Josias Hallott acknowledgeth to owe vnto our soñ Lord, the Kinge, the sume of £20-00-00. Trustrum Hull the sume of £10-00-00. The condition that if the said Josias Hallott bee of good behauior towards our soñ Lord," etc. (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 31-32.)

1663. 1 Apr. Account of wine and liquors and powder and shott that hath bine giuen in to mee that hath bine brought into Barnstable the first of Aprill, 1663. * * * *

Trustram Hull the 4th. of June, 100 Gallons of liquors, and in Nouember six cases of liquors and a barrel of powder & 200 weight of shott for Mr. Thomas Clarke. hee brought about 20 gall of rum. P^r me Joseph Laythorp.

Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 52, 53.)

In 1664, Tristram Hull acted as agent for the town of Barnstable in the purchase of some Indian lands, and the following curious deed verifies the transaction:—

"These presents witness, That I, Yanno, sachem, have freely and absolutely bargained and sold unto Thomas Hinckley, Nathaniel Bacon and Tristram Hull, in behalf and for the use of the town of Barnstable, all that tract of land lying and being at the South Sea, in the precinct of Barnstable:—bounded easterly by the bounds of Yarmouth; northerly by the lands bought of Paupmunnuck, excepting the skirts of good land at the head of the Cove, and what he hath already given to Nicholas Davis, a trader from Rhode Island; in consideration of £20 and two small pair of breeches, to me in hand paid by Tristram Hull, wherewith he, the said Yanno, rests himself fully satisfied and paid for those lands, with warranties against any Indians what-ever laying any lawful claims thereunto. This 19th. July, 1664.

The mark + of YANNO.

Witness, Sam'l Wally Jr.

The mark + of Indian WILL."

"It was agreed by the town that Nicholas Davis shall quietly enjoy the lands which Yanno has given him on or about Sam's Neck." (Freeman, 2-268-9.)

1665. 7 June. Trustram Hull was on the Grand Enquest. (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 91.)

Account of liquors brought into the town of Eastham, as followeth:

28th. of 9 month, 1664. * * * * *

Trustran Hull of Barnstable brought a barrel of rum to the towne of Eastham and sold it, but gave noe account of it to either of vs, and wee thought to giue the court notice of it.

Willam Walker,

John Done.

(Plym. Col. Res. IV. 100.)

1665. 2 Dec. Att this court Nathaniel Bacon, John Chipman, John Tomson and Trustram Hull were approved by the court to bee selectmen for the towne of Barnstable. (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 112.)

1666. 5 June. The same men were "approved as Celect Men for Barnstable. (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 124.)

1666. 5 June. Att this court Elizabeth, the wife of John Williams, appeered with complaint against her husband, the sand John Williams, for his great abusiue and vnaturall carryages towards her, both in word and deed, in defaming her and rendering her to bee a whore and by p^rsisting in his refusing to p^rforme marriage duty vnto her according to what both the law of God and man requireth, which more at large appeereth by the writing vnder her hand."

A jury was empaneled to try the case, on which was Trustram Hull. "These found the abouesaid complaint to bee true or just. Whereupon the court gave her liberty to live apart from her husband, vntil the court shall otherwise order," he to "apparell her suitably and furnish her with bed and bedding and such like nesesyaries, and to alow her ten pounds yearly to maintain her while shee shal bee thuse absent from him; and for the p^rformance heerof doe require that hee put in ceurtie."

"2condly. For that hee hath greatly defamed and otherwise abused his said wife in the p^rmises, wee adjudge him to stand in the street or market place by the post, with an inscription ouer him that may declare to the world his vnworthy carryages towards his wife." (Marginal note.) "Att the earnest request of his wife this p^rte of the centence was remited and not executed."

3rd * * * wee doe amerce him to pay a fine of twenty pound to the vse of the colonie." (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 125-6.)

This same matter had first come up on the wife's complaint, in June, 1665, and again in October of the same year. They seem never to have become reconciled, as in July, 1668, he engaged to pay towards his wife's maintainance "a barrel of beife, a barrel of porke, * * a good cow not to exceed eight yeare old," etc. "at the now dwelling house of John Williams, in Scituate, the second Tuesday in May next. (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 191.)

1665. Oct. 3 John Williams Juni^r is allowed and appointed by the court to bee guardian unto John Barker, and is required by the court to bringe him vp in the way of education and learning soe as may bee to his advantage and healp when hee comes to bee of age, by putting him forth to a trad," etc.* (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 108.)

1666. 31 Oct. Trustram Hull attested an apology of William Nicaron for defaming Thomas Hinckley. (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 135.)

1666-7. 5 Mar. "Letters of adminnestration was graunted by the court vnto Joseph Holley and Marke Redley, to adminester on the estate of Mr. Trustram Hull of Barnstable, deceased." (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 141.)

1667-8. 5 Mar. Nathaniel Bacon and Joseph Laythorpe appointed guardians of Joseph son of Mr. Trustram Hull, deceased. (Plym. Col. Rec. IV. 175.)

1670. Mar. 8. Att this court Hannah Hull made choice of Joseph Holley and Nathaniel Fitsrandall to bee her guardians, which was approued by the court. (Plym. Col. Rec. V. p. 52.)

LOTHROPP.

The parish of Lowthorpe is located in the wapentake of Dickering in the East Riding of Yorkshire, England. Whether the parish is named from the Lowthorp, Lothrop or Lathrop family or the family name taken from the parish, is an open question. Walter de Lowthorpe was sheriff of Yorkshire in 1216. Numerous other records of the name are given in the Lothrop Genealogy, edited by the Rev. E. B. Huntington and published in 1889. The earliest authentic and connected record of the family begins with—

1. JOHN LOWTHROPPE.

Early in the 16th. century he was living in Cherry Burton, sometimes called "Sheriburton," a parish about four miles from Lowthorpe. Though belonging to a junior branch of the family, he was a gentleman of extensive landed interests. In the 37th. year of Henry the VIII, (1545) he appears in the Yorkshire subsidy rolls, assessed for twice as much as any other man in the parish. He had a son.—

2. ROBERT LOWTHROPPE, who succeeded to the estates of his father and made considerable additions thereto in his lifetime. He m. Ellen, who survived him some 14 years.

18. REV. JOHN LOTHROPP.

JOHN LOTHROPP, the 12th. child of Thomas Lothrop and Mary, his wife, was baptized at Etton, Yorkshire, England, 20 Dec. 1584. He married in England, and had the following

CHILDREN.

27. +JANE, bap. 29 Sept. 1614, in Egerton, Kent, England.
28. ANN, bap. 12 May, 1616, d. 1619.
29. JOHN, bap. 22 Feby. 1617-18.

32. SAMUEL, b., d. 19 Feby. 1701.
33. JOSEPH, b. 1624 d. 1702.
34. BENJAMMIN, b.

His first wife sickened and died while he was imprisoned in London. It is the best opinion of genealogists, that he did not remarry before leaving England, but must have married shortly after coming to America. His children b. in Scituate, Mass., were:—

35. BARNABAS, bap. 6 June, 1636.
36. A daughter, b. 30 July, 1638, and d. same day.
Born in Barnstable, Mass.
37. ABIGAIL, bap. 2 Nov. 1639. m. James Clark, 7 Oct. 1657.
38. BATHSHUA, bap. 27 Feby. 1641. m. Alex. Marsh, and d. 8 Jany. 1723. In her husband's will she is called "Bathsheba."
39. JOHN, b. 9 Feby. 1644.
40. A son, b. 25 Jany. 1649. "A man child of John Lothrop dying immediately after it was borne; buryed Jann. 25, 1649."

It was supposed that Rev. John Lothrop was educated at Oxford, and it was so stated by Deane, in his history of Scituate and the Rev. John Lothrop, of Boston, in his memoir, and by Mr. Savage, but later investigations indicate that both he and his brother Thomas were educated at Queen's College, in Cambridge, where he matriculated in 1601, received the degree of B. A., in 1605, and that of M. A., in 1609. Authentic records locate him at Egerton, Kent, 48 miles south-east of London, as curate of the parish. To this living he was admitted about 1611, by the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul. He was there in the fall of 1614, and the last report of his family there is in the fall of 1619. It was probably his first and last parish, as minister of the Church of England. The church in which he officiated was an ancient structure, standing on the summit of a rounded hill. It was dedicated to St. James, and consisted of two aisles and a chancel. He remained here as long as his conscience and judgment could approve the ritual and government of the church. In 1623 he bid adieu to the church of his youth and espoused the cause of the Independents, with no misgivings. He left Eger-ton and the next year was called to take the place of the Rev. Henry Jacobs, pastor of the first Independent or Congregationalist Society, in London. This church was situated on Union street, in Southwark, later known as Deadman's place, by reason of the cemetery attached. At this time they held no public worship, their meetings being declared illegal and persecutions having begun. They gathered in secret. For some eight years Mr. Lothrop held this congregation together, under extreme vicissitudes. They were at last hunted down by Tomlinson, the wily pursuivant of the Bishop, and on April 22nd. 1632, while holding a meeting in the rooms of Humphrey Barnet, a brewer's clerk in Black Friars, forty-two of them were arrested and thrown into prison, Mr. Lothrop being among them. They were imprisoned until the spring of 1634, when most of them, excepting Mr. Lathropp, were released on bail. Mr. Lathropp obtained permission to visit his wife and pray with her during her dying hours, but was remanded to prison.

The following records of the court proceedings are found in the New Record office in Fetter Lane, London:—

"1634. June 12. John Lathrop of Lambeth Marsh: Bond to be served and he attached if he appear not on the next court day."

June 19. Bond ordered to be served and to be attached for non-appearance."

Oct. 9. John Lathrop and Samuel Eaton to be attached for non-appearance."

1634-5. Feby. 19. John Lathrop and Samuel Eaton for contempt in not appearing to answer concerning their keeping conventicles; their bonds ordered to be certified and they attached and committed."

After the death of Mr. Lothrop's wife, his children repaired to the Bishop at Lambeth, and sought his release. This was granted upon condition of his leaving the country, and the following entry was made in the court proceedings:

1634. Apr. 24. John Lathrop enlarged on bond to appear in Trinity term and not to be present at any private conventicles."

This order opened the door for his escape to America. Gov. Winthrop's journal, (p. 71) under date of 18 Sept. 1634, says, "The Griffin and another ship now arriving with two hundred passengers. Mr. Lathrop and Mr. Sims, two Godly ministers coming in the same ship." When he reached Boston with a portion of his London flock, he found that preparations had been made to welcome them to the new home in Scituate. At least nine pioneers had built houses there, and thither he and his people repaired, Sept. 27th. 1634. James Cudworth, one of his parishioners, in a letter to Rev. Dr. John Stoughton concerning the settlements near Boston, says,—“Ours, Cittawate, to whom the Lord has bine very gracious & his p^rvidence Admorably sene, beyinge to bringe vs oure Pastor, whome wee so longe expected, Mr. Lathorpe, whom the Lord has brought to vs in safety and whome wee find to bee a holy, Reverat & heavenly-minded man.” He was soon ordained, as shown by his own records:— “Jany. 19. 1634-5. att my house uppon w^{ch} day I was chosen Pastour and invested into office.” The question of baptism by immersion and by sprinkling had arisen early in the independent churches, but Mr. Lothrop had wisely refrained from taking any stand upon the question while in England, but after he was established at Barnstable, he wrote a tract on the subject, which was published in London.

That he was a widower at the time he became pastor at Scituate is probable, though he must have married soon after, from the record of his church,---“My wife and Brother Foxwell's wife joined having their dismissal from elsewhere, 14 June 1635.” Nothing further is known of his wife, excepting that her name was Anna, and that she was a widow, with children. Otis says she was the widow Ann Hammond, which may be correct, but the date of the marriage given by him, 17 Feby. 1636-7, is contradicted by the church record kept by Mr. Lothrop himself. Just how many of Mr. Lothrop's children came over with him is unknown. Mr. Otis infers, from the fact that they were well educated that some of them remained in England or returned there to study. When Mr. Lothrop came to Scituate, he found, in addition to those who had come over with him, nine families in Scituate, that he had known in England. In 1635 the settlement was largely increased, mainly by emigration from Kent, and in two years after he came thirty-one new houses were built. The meeting house was finished and dedicated November 10 and 11, 1636, prior to which worship had been conducted mainly in the house of James Cudworth. By Nov. 11th, 1635, sixty-two names had been entered on the church register. These from his own family joined later: "Isaac Robinson and my sonn Fuller joyned having their letters of dismission from Plimouth unto us Novemb. 7. 1636." "My son Thomas Lothroppp joyned May 4, 1637." "My brother Linnell & wife having letter of dismission from the church in London joyned to us Septemb. 16. 1638." Though welcomed to Scituate, Mr. Lothrop's labors there were not without some troubles. The question of baptism caused some disturbance. Personally he was liberal and believed that the rite was symbolical, and was willing that each individual should decide for himself. He professed no creed and proclaimed the great truth, that man is not responsible to his fellow man in matters of faith and conscience. Differences of opinion he tolerated and kindly reproved the wayward.

In September, 1639, a grant was obtained for a settlement at Mattakeese, between Yarmouth and Sandwich, and in October the settlement was begun, chiefly by people from Scituate. Only two persons, Mr. Joseph Hull and Thomas Dimoc, are mentioned in the grant, but many persons of note are named as "associates", among them the Rev. John Lothrop. Some twenty families went with him from Scituate. Different reasons have been assigned for this removal. Mr. Deane says that the mode of baptism was the chief cause of dissension in Mr. Lothrop's church. Mr. Otis differs with him, mainly on the ground of Mr. Lothrop's known liberality on this question, and assigns as the main reason the fact that their assignments of land at Scituate, by reason of the number of inhabitants, had become too small for their comfortable maintainance. The location at Mattakeese, which later was named Barnstable, offered good pastures and facilities for raising cattle and horses, which was one of their chief sources of income. The better reasoning seems to be with Mr. Otis.

On the 29th of June, 1639, O. S., (9 July, new) a pioneer company left Scituate for Mattakeese or Mattakeset. Their object was to secure a winter's supply of provender for their cattle and to build houses for themselves and for the larger company, who remained in Scituate until their annual crops had been secured. Mattakeset was incorporated as a town 14 June, 1639, new style, and called Barnstable. It was probably named for Barnstaple, in Devonshire, England, whence many of them took their departure for America. No church had been organized before the coming of the Rev. John Lothrop, but meetings were held, the Rev. Joseph Hull, the leading man of the plantation, assisted by Rev. John Mayo, officiating. The first meeting house was built in 1646, prior to which date meetings were held either in the open air or at private houses. On Dec. 11th, 1639, O. S., the first Thanksgiving was observed at Barnstable in the house of Joseph Hull, which has already been noted in the account of Mr. Hull. (Ante p. 308.)

The division of the common lands mainly engrossed the attention of the settlers in the winter of 1639-40. A day of fasting was set apart April 25th, to invoke the Divine blessing on their efforts to divide their lands quietly and justly. Mr. Lothrop and other leading men were prudent, as well as good business men, and on 26 Mar. 1640, O. S., (Apr. 5, N. S.) the following rule was adopted "by unanimous consent", viz: "One-third part to every house-lot equally; one-third to the names that are unmovable; and the other third according to men's estates". The exact meaning of the rule is not apparent now, but was doubtless well understood at the time. The division was not made until June, 1641. Mr. Lothrop's first house was located on the lot occupied of late years by the hotel known as Eldridge's. Later a new and more commodious house was built. He mentions his new house in his will, which is the house now known as the Sturgis Library building, and was doubtless built in 1644.

Mr. Lothrop died in Barnstables, 8 Nov. 1653, the last entry in his records being 15 June, 1653. He left a will, which was not signed, but it was admitted to probate without objection, and letters issued to "M^{rs} Laythorpe, and M^r Thomas Prence was appointed by the court to take the oath unto the estate at home". The will provided as follows: To my wife my now dwelling house; to my eldest son Thomas, the house which I first lived in in Barnstable; to my son John, in England, and Benjamin here, each a cow and £5; daughters Jane and Barbara have had their portions already; the rest of the children, both mine and my wife's each a cow, and to each child one book, to be chosen according to their ages; the rest of my library to be sold to any honest man who can tell how to use it, and the proceeds divided". This part of the library was estimated in the inventory to be worth £5.

During the fourteen years that Mr. Lothrop was pastor of the church at Barnstable, no civil magistrate was called upon to suppress any crime, which speaks volumes for his beneficent influence over the community. By his liberality and broad-mindedness, he was enabled to draw the line between gloomy austerity and unbridled license, and while insisting on the faithful performance of all religious duties, he permitted the young to make merry and enjoy themselves in rational amusements. It is not the purpose of the writer to enter into a full history of the church of Mr. Lothrop. Those interested are referred to the authorities cited at the end of this article, especially to Otis' Barnstable Families, where a full discussion of the doctrines taught and the doings of the church, with much other interesting historical matter, will be found. All agree that Mr. Lothrop was one of the best and most learned men that came to the colonies, and one may be pardoned for a little pride in tracing their ancestry to him.

His wife Ann died May 1st, 1680, aged 78 years.

JOSIAH² JONES, son of Lewis and Ann, born 1643, died October 9th, 1714. Admitted freeman April 18th, 1690 was a captain, one of the original members and one of the first deacons of the Weston Church, to which office he was elected the 4th of January, 1709-10. About 1690, the three portions of Watertown, viz: Watertown, Waltham and Weston, were designated as the precincts of Captain Bond's Company, Captain Garfield's Company and of Lieutenant Jones' Company. He was selectman of Watertown 1685-86-87-90, 1702, 1709; after 1712, of Weston and the 20th of February, 1665-6, he buys a farm of one hundred and twenty-four acres of John Stone and wife Sarah of Watertown; April the 21st, 1684, sells for 60 pounds his share of the mills on Stony Brook to John Bright together with thirty acres of land, which he bought February 19th, 1678-9, from Nathaniel Treadway and also land bought from John Chadwick with the house thereon. He served in King Philip's War, 1676. Married October 2nd, 1667, Lydia Treadway. She died September 18, 1743, aged 84 years.

ISAAC³ JONES, son of Josiah and Lydia, was baptized May 25th, 1690. He married at Colchester, Conn., Hannah Welles, July 11th, 1717. He held town and church offices for many years. Fifteen of his children were born in this town, among the *Nathan*⁴, born December 30th, 1731. From best authority obtainable he moved to East Haddam, where two more of his children were born. October 3rd, 1746, he buys a farm with a Mansion House, etc., in Bolton, Conn., of Simon Kingsbury. His name is the first on the Manual of the list of thirty-five who were recommended from the Church in Bolton to the one organized October 24th, 1762, in the north part of the town. He died February 15th, 1782. His wife Hannah died December 7th, 1758.

NATHAN⁴ JONES, above mentioned, married Elizabeth Bidwell, June 19th, 1760. He went out at the Lexington alarm, 1775, as a sergeant in Lieutenant Ezekiel Olcott's Company. He re-enlisted April 25th, 1777, for three years. Discharged January 25th, 1780, in the Second Regiment of Connecticut Line. He and wife Elizabeth united with the Church in North Bolton, before February 3rd, 1765. He died in 1822. She died several years before. Vernon was made a town in 1808, by a division of the town of Bolton.

NATHAN⁵ JONES, Jr., son of Nathan⁴ and Hannah, was born February, 1764. He served in a regiment of levies raised for the defense of New York State and maintained during the years 1779 and 1782, under command of Colonel John Field, Captain David Hecock's Company. July 17, 1786, the county surveyor of Rutland County, Vermont, surveys for Nathan Jones, Jr., sixty acres of land in the town of Saltash, afterwards named Plymouth. In January, 1790, he married Priscilla Brown of Plymouth, daughter of Adam and Priscilla (Putnam) Brown. She is a descendant of John and Priscilla Putnam who came from Buckingham, England, and settled in Salem, Mass., 1634. June 4th, 1799, Governor Isaac Tichenor of Vermont appoints Nathan Jones, Jr., Captain of a Company of Militia, which commission he resigned with honor May 12th, 1802. In 1805, he removes his family to Jay, Essex county, New York. Deacon Tarrent Putnam, the grandfather of Priscilla (Brown) Jones, lived in Sutton, Mass., and it is said that when General Israel Putnam was on his way to Bunker Hill, he stopped and dined with him and mounted his horse from the bank at the west end of the house, where the cousins embraced and kissed each other and wept. Nathan Jones, Jr., served in Captain Shubill Sumner's Company of Volunteers, Sanford's unregimented battalion, New York Militia. Died January 12th, 1847. His wife Priscilla died February 16th, 1820.

PIERPONT EDWARDS⁶ JONES, son of Nathan⁵, Jr. and Priscilla, was born June 27th, 1819. Married August 18th, 1841, Beulah, daughter of Col. Daniel Blish. Pierpont Edwards Jones died April 8th, 1892. His wife died February 2nd, 1887. For their descendants see ante, pp. 185-6, 246-251.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

Friends Help Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Blish Celebrate.

(From Margaretville correspondent.)

In these days when divorce and separation and living apart is too often the occurrence in the married lives of folks, the celebration of a golden wedding is an outstanding event in the life of any community or any family.

Fifty years ago last Monday Jasob Blish led his fair Sarah before the Rev. Ferris of Kingston and there united with her in holy wedlock. They little knew then what was to be the outcome of their compact. Many things have changed. They came back to their log cabin home on the farm at Thompson's hollow back of Pine Hill, behind the motive power of the old family horse. These days railroad train, auto and airplane transport them over the hills and the radio brings the world messages to their ears. And through all the changing scenes and all the fading of lives, still they maintained their fellowship together until the fifty-year period was up and at the end of that period, they expressed the desire that they might live another twenty-five years together.

On Monday last the friends of the old couple, no young couple, gathered at the home of John Blish, the son, to give vent to their expressions of congratulation. Loved ones from New York and vicinity had traveled the long distance to be present and when everyone who could come had arrived an auto was sent for Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Blish to their home in Fleischmanns inviting them to come down and enjoy dinner with their son, John. They responded with eagerness, little thinking what was in store for them. Jacob has a good many times played the surprise prank on someone else much to his satisfaction, but he never had it played on him in this fashion before and to say that he was dumbfounded when he entered the house and found it filled with his friends and neighbors and loved ones is to limit the description of his feelings. Jacob for once was speechless, and the merry way and the quick reply were lost in the overcoming emotions of the hour. What a great privilege it was for these two, for not one single individual who was at the wedding with them was privileged to live long enough to celebrate the occasion.

After a dainty repast was served the wedding cake was brought in and the bride and groom of fifty years and of every year, proceeded to cut the cake. After this gifts of gold were presented to the couple on the behalf of those present.

The following guests were present: From Brooklyn, James G. Burney, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gunther, Mrs. Mary Clark, Miss Margaret Mullen, John Mullen, Miss Claire Seaton, John and Ivan Blish; from Margaretville, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Blish, and son, Paul, Mr. and Mrs. J. Scudder, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ballard and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Moseman, Mr. and Mrs. W. O'Kelly, Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Tamblin, Mrs. Mary Sanford, Miss Ruth Blish, Miss H. Purcell, Mr. and Mrs. Demas Mead; from Fleischmanns, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Kelly, Miss Mary Parker, Mrs. M. Parker, Miss L. Johnson, Vronon Blish, J. DeSilva; from Philadelphia, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCall; from Kingston, Joseph Pessenar, Miss May Pessenar.
